Tokio Rebel Leaders Condemned Premier Urges End Of Disorders After Fights In Paris Involving 15,000

SEVENTEEN TO BE EXECUTED BY JAPANESE ARMY

Court-martial Gives Five Life Imprisonment for Sharing in Uprising of February Last; Fifty-two Sentenced to Terms Ranging up to Fifteen Years.

Tokio, July 7.—A special court-martial early today sentenced seventeen leaders of the February 26 rebellion to death and five others to life imprisonment.

The court also convicted forty-four non-commissioned officers and eight civilians, ordering them imprisoned for terms ranging from eighteen months to fifteen years.

The charges against them included murder, rebellion and disobedience to the commands of the Emperor himself.

MAN'S DEATH INVESTIGATED

Screen Art Director and Critic Believed Murdered in California

Redwood City, Calif., July 6.—The mysterious death of Junius Craven, art director and critic, sent authorities on a check of his recent activities today in hope they might provide a solution.

The body of the thirty-five-year-old stage and screen art director was found Saturday at the foot of an ocean beach cliff. Coroner William Croshaw said he was convinced Craven was murdered.

KEPT IN PRISON

Since February 29 most of the officers have been under arrest in a military prison at Shibus.

Those sentenced to die were:

Capt. Teruo Ando, Third Infantry Regiment, who shared command of the Tokyo rebellion with Capt. Shiro Nonaka. Nonaka committed suicide February 29.

Capt. Kotosada Koda, First Infantry Regiment.

Infantry First Lieutenant Yasuhiko Kurihara, Motoaki Nakahashi, Seichu Niwa, Naoshi Sakai, Katsuo Tsuchida, Tetsuo Takeshima.

Artillery First Lieutenant Masaru Tanaka.

Infantry Second Lieutenant Hachiro Hayashi and Taro Takahashi.

Artillery Second Lieutenant Yu Yasuda.

Engineer Second Lieutenant Kanji Nakajima.

Asachi Isobe, former quartermaster captain.

Zensuke Shibukawa, graduate of the army cadet school.

Yoshaki Nakamura, former Communist prominent in labor organizations.

Genji Minakami, retired army officer.

The court's judgment cannot be appealed.

ZEPPELIN'S PATH IS QUESTIONED

Associated Press
London, July 6.—Flights of the Zeppelin Hindenburg over England brought notice today of parliamentary consideration.

Viscount Swinton, Air Secretary, will be asked Wednesday to explain the government's policy in allowing foreign aircraft to fly over Great Britain without adhering to "specified routes and at a reasonable altitude."

The Zeppelin yesterday passed over two military camps in addition to a Royal flying seaplane base, it was pointed out. Previous flights have included visits over northern industrial areas, it was said.

COURT TEST ON STEEL DISPUTE

U.S. Government Asks Ruling on Act as Industrial Warfare Threatens

Associated Press
Washington, July 6.—Warning that industrial warfare threatens, the United States government stepped into the steel picture today as the struggle of unionization in the $5,000,000,000 industry headed rapidly into its first crucial phase.

With John L. Lewis spurring the drive to organize all 500,000 steel workers into one big union in defiance of the strong opposition of employers, the National Labor Relations Board reopened a fight in the courts to force steel companies to accept the National Labor Relations Act as a means of keeping peace.

The board announced it was petitioning the federal circuit court of appeals at New Orleans today in a new effort to enforce the act against the big Jones and Laughlin Steel Corporation.

WHEAT PRICES ARE BEING SET

Canadian Press
Ottawa, July 6.—While hot weather and drought pushed wheat prices upward on the Winnipeg and Chicago markets representatives of prairie wheat producers today conferred with members of the cabinet on the fixing of the minimum prices for the crop now ripening.

The executive of Canadian Co-operative Wheat Producers Limited, headed by L. C. Brouillette, chairman, met members of the wheat committee of the cabinet in the office of Hon. J. G. Gardiner, Minister of Agriculture.

U.S. HOLIDAY DEATHS 441

Fourth of July Week-end Fatalities Second Highest in Nine Years

Chicago, July 6.—The United States today summed up its cost in life of celebrating the double holiday of the Fourth of July and found a total of 441 persons had met violent death over the week-end.

It was the largest Independence Day celebration fatality list since 1931, when 483 died, and the second largest in the last nine years. However, the 1936 deaths were over two days, whereas the compilations for some of the previous years were for July 4 only.

Down towns were quiet in 1935, 1934, 1933, and 1932. In 1934, 185 in 1933, and 243 in 1932. Fireworks resulted in seven deaths.

BURDEN FOR OTHERS

The petition asking the need for remedial legislation such as this act is now being amply illustrated by the threatened strike in the steel industry which will by its nature directly burden interstate commerce.

The act, among other things, guarantees the right of collective bargaining, seeks to outlaw employer-dominated unions and lists "unfair practices" for which employers could be penalized. It is now the subject of court battles in which its constitutionality is being challenged and defended.

John A. Lewis, United Mine Workers' leader and head of the committee for industrial organization, planned to strike the keynote of the unionization drive tonight in a radio speech entitled "Industrial Democracy in Steel."

Crash With Happy Ending

Horror-stricken spectators saw a careening truck crash two cars on crowded Riverside Drive in New York City, and force another into an excavation with a sheer twenty-five foot drop. Rescuers approached this scene with little hope for safety of the occupants of the overturned car. But Charles Erb crawled out of the wreckage and twenty minutes later Mrs. Erb and a seven-year-old child they planned to adopt were freed, suffering only minor injuries.

FISHERMEN ON COAST STRIKE

Rivers Inlet Men Demand 50 Cents a Fish Instead of 40 Cents; 1,400 Boats Idle

Canadian Press
Vancouver, July 6.—Sockeye salmon fishermen in the Rivers Inlet district today struck for 50 cents a fish instead of the 40 cents they have been receiving from canneries, it was learned here today.

A strike committee is reported to have received a 800 to 110 vote from fishermen on Saturday to strike for higher price and between 1,350 and 1,400 boats are reported idle today.

A number of boats at Knight Inlet and in the Alert Bay district are also reported to be on strike and reports reaching here state the strike committee has sent delegates to Smith's Inlet, the Skeena and the Nass, to urge fishermen at those places to join the strike.

SCHOOL PLAN IS SUCCESSFUL

Ratepayers in Mainland District Endorse Consolidation; Others Coming

Operation of the new consolidated school district in the Sumas-Matsqui-Abbotsford area by an official trustee, replacing the former school boards, has proved a success and "will probably have important results in the reconstruction of the administrative arrangements in British Columbia's educational systems," Hon. G. M. Weir, Minister of Education, said today.

At eleven special meetings in the various parts of the district the ratepayers, as the result of the demonstration of the last year, have overwhelmingly endorsed a plan to put the entire district under one administration. So far the commissioner, while directing things from one office, has treated the districts separately.

Economies are the big feature of the joint operation and it has been possible to give extra facilities in the larger district without unduly increasing the cost, Dr. Weir said.

This is the first in the province to take advantage of the new school legislation passed in the spring under which school boards can be replaced by trustees. The former trustees serve as an advisory board and will continue to do so until the next municipal elections.

There is a likelihood of similar schemes in other parts of the province, Dr. Weir said. Without naming the areas, he said two or three would be considered this month.

Sheffield, Eng., July 6.—The factory of Arthur S. Lee and Sons, where steel wire is made for the British navy and air force, was damaged last night by fire which some investigators said they believed was incendiary.

PREMIER TO FLY NORTH

Taking Special Plane From Here Wednesday on Trip to Atlin and Yukon

Premier Pattullo, at sixty-three, has become a confirmed flying enthusiast and is rapidly earning the title of British Columbia's first flying Premier, not as a pilot, but as a passenger.

On a trip to northern British Columbia this week, the Premier will go in a specially-chartered seaplane. Accompanied by his secretary, Ben Hethy, and piloted by E. W. C. Dobbin, the Premier will fly from here at 6 o'clock Wednesday morning. The first stop will be to Prince Rupert, then across to the Queen Charlotte Islands, and next into Stewart and Atlin and up to Dawson City, Yukon, where he was in the gold commissioner's office nearly forty years ago. He will also visit other points en route.

They will fly in a new Waco seaplane just brought to the coast by the Air Travel and Transport Company of Vancouver.

In the ten days or so that he will be away, the Premier expects to cover about 3,000 miles across the north lands of the province.

Rev. Dr. Cadman Is Critically Ill

Plattsburgh, N.S., July 6.—Dr. L. G. Barton Jr. said today that the condition of Dr. S. Parkes Cadman, noted preacher, was "critical."

LUX FUNERAL IN SWITZERLAND

Canadian Press from Havas
Geneva, July 6.—The body of Stefan Lux, the Czechoslovakian Jewish newspaperman who committed suicide during the League of Nations Assembly meeting last Friday, was buried today in the Jewish cemetery at Vevrier.

Rabbi Poliakoff said at the funeral service that Lux, who was wounded twice fighting in Austrian ranks during the Great War, shot himself "as a call upon the conscience of the League."

SELASSIE AGAIN GOES TO LONDON

Canadian Press from Havas
Paris, July 6.—Emperor Haile Selassie, dejectedly returning from Geneva, where his plea for further support against Italy was rejected by the League of Nations, passed through this city today en route to London.

The Negus refused to make any public statement.

Members of British Press Party Spend Week-end Here and Are Greatly Impressed With City; Personalities of Party

Men who cover the news in the hub of world activity—London, England—are visiting Victoria today.

They are members of a party touring Canada under the auspices of the Canadian Pacific Railway and came to the coast to participate in the Vancouver Jubilee ceremonies.

They spent a pleasant week-end here, resting up from a round of official functions the previous week. J. Harry Smith, manager of the C.P.R. press bureau at Montreal, is conducting the party which includes: Cyril Lakin, editor of The Sunday Times, who is accompanied by Mrs. Lakin.

R. Gordon Helsby, managing-editor of The Daily Herald, mouthpiece of the Labor Party, with Mrs. Helsby. P. B. M. Roberts, London correspondent of The Scotsman, a former chairman of the Parliamentary Press Gallery committee, with Mrs. Roberts.

W. L. Warden, retired editor of The Daily Mail and a director of Associated Newspapers. Mr. Warden covered the maiden voyage of St. Queen Mary for The Scotsman and its associate papers.

Graham Shepherd of The Illustrated London News, who carries his camera everywhere and uses it continually. Mrs. Shepherd, a daughter of J. Murray Gibson, of Montreal, author of "Steel of Empire," is with him.

Charles W. Sutton, foreign editor of The Daily Express, a raconteur of unusual wit who has a wide background of foreign affairs.

A. West, editor of The Glasgow Herald, who is studying some of the Canadian views on monetary reform.

Hundred Persons Nurse Injuries as Result of Battles Between Large Numbers of Rightists and Squads of Police; Faction Opposing Popular Front Government is Headed by Col. F. de la Rocque.

Paris, July 6.—Close to 100 persons here were suffering from injuries today as a result of street fights between rioting Nationalists and police. Sixteen Nationalists were in custody, awaiting trial on charges growing out of the clashes.

With the followers of Col. Francois de la Rocque, chief of the dissolved Croix de Feu, continuing their daily demonstrations, Premier Leon Blum made an appeal for an end of disorders, saying: "The time has come to get hold of ourselves, to keep our friendships and alliances and to play peacemaker in drifting Europe. France, more than ever, needs order and discipline within; prestige and authority without."

BALLOON RACE WINNER NAMED

Goodyear Entry Piloted By F. A. Trotter Victor in U.S. Test, Denver Reports

Associated Press
Denver, Colo., July 6.—Frank A. Trotter, veteran pilot of lighter-than-air craft, apparently was the victor today in the 24th annual National Balloon Race.

Trotter, piloting the Goodyear entry from Akron, Ohio, reported to race headquarters he had landed at Fresno, S.D., approximately 385 miles from Denver.

He was the only one of the five balloonists who took off here Friday night to find good fortune in variable winds which swept the others from drifting out of the state.

Second place apparently was won by the Great Lakes Exposition balloon from Cleveland.

Members of British Press Party Spend Week-end Here and Are Greatly Impressed With City; Personalities of Party

Men who cover the news in the hub of world activity—London, England—are visiting Victoria today.

They are members of a party touring Canada under the auspices of the Canadian Pacific Railway and came to the coast to participate in the Vancouver Jubilee ceremonies.

They spent a pleasant week-end here, resting up from a round of official functions the previous week. J. Harry Smith, manager of the C.P.R. press bureau at Montreal, is conducting the party which includes: Cyril Lakin, editor of The Sunday Times, who is accompanied by Mrs. Lakin.

A committee of the B.C. Institute of Journalists, Victoria branch, headed by H. Sandham Graves, met the visitors at the Vancouver hotel Saturday afternoon and at an informal reception in the Empress Hotel exchanged news and views with them.

Yesterday the Londoners were taken for a drive to Butchart's Gardens and were then entertained to tea at "Spencerwood," the beautiful country home of Mr. and Mrs. J. W. Spencer at Anstey. Returning to the city they dropped in at the Anchorage to admire the day's catch of Brentwood anglers. They were amazed to see a 43½-pounder which had been caught on a line.

This morning they paid a visit to the Legislative Buildings to meet Premier Pattullo. This afternoon they will attend a reception arranged by the local newspapermen. They leave tonight for Lake Louise and Banff.

LIKE VICTORIA

The visitors were interested in a variety of things, but they were particularly interested in the city.

LOST LAUNCH SEEN IN GULF

Vancouver, July 6.—Captain P. H. P. Rodgers of the S. Princess Marguerite today reported to British Columbia police here that an unidentified gasboat, with grey hull and white deckhouse, had been sighted about three and a half miles off the Sandheads Lightship.

The report said no signs of life had been seen on the gasboat, which was partly submerged.

The Princess Marguerite was inbound from Seattle.

WILL NOT ASK GERMAN REPLY

Eden Tells British Commons He Is Not Pressing For Answer to Questionnaire

London, July 6.—Foreign Secretary Eden told the House of Commons today Great Britain would not continue to press Germany for a reply to the British questionnaire addressed to that country last April, concerning the Reich's attitude towards her neighbors.

He was answering questions by several members of the House on this point.

Mr. Eden said: "I am not prepared to ask for an answer any more."

Arthur Henderson, Labor member and a son of the late Arthur Henderson, leader of the Labor opposition in the House, was one of the questioners.

Mr. Henderson asked if the Foreign Secretary would consider making representations to Germany to hurry up the answer.

Mr. Eden said Sir Eric Phipps, British ambassador at Berlin, "had reminded the German Government on more than one occasion that Britain desired an early reply."

Mr. Eden stated the British still were hopeful of general negotiations with Germany.

To a member's request for an inquiry into whether Germany was building fortifications in the Rhineland, Mr. Eden said: "I do not think it would be appropriate to raise this individual question separately at this moment."

Manitoba's Election

THREE WEEKS FROM TODAY the electors of Manitoba will go to the polls to elect a new Legislature. The government is led by Premier John Bracken who has guided the Liberal-Progressive party in the House since 1922. After fourteen years as Prime Minister he asks the people for a mandate to initiate the following programme:

1. A better deal for agriculture in the interest of every citizen of Manitoba.
2. A better deal for the provinces and municipalities in their association with the federal government.
3. Adjustment of municipal debts and a fresh start for the people in farming areas hit by drought, and
4. Lower interest rates on private, municipal and government borrowings.

Mr. Bracken's manifesto also asks the electorate to give its general direction of the government's policies on five other important matters. They are:

1. Unemployment relief.
2. Development of promising indigenous industries.
3. Furtherance of preventive remedies for human and industrial ills.
4. Maintenance of a reasonable stand on health, education and social services, and
5. Restoration of confidence on the part of all legitimate business enterprises whether of a personal, co-operative or corporate character.

For more than sixteen years the preponderating political strength in the Manitoba Legislature has been Liberal. The title adopted more recently has been Liberal-Progressive and under this designation has appeared the Bracken election manifesto. The present Premier has proved himself an able administrator in his own province and an astute negotiator in the wider field of Dominion-provincial collaboration.

The standing of the parties at the end of 1935 was as follows: Government, thirty-six; Conservatives, nine; Labor, five; Independents, two; vacancies, three; total, fifty-five. When the eighteenth Legislature dissolved in 1932 there were twenty-nine Liberal-Progressives, fifteen Conservatives and five straight Liberals, Labor, Independents, and one vacancy accounting for the rest of the fifty-five seats.

At this distance there does not seem to be much doubt about the outcome on July 27. Neither in the urban nor in the rural communities of Manitoba is there any likelihood of a change in political sentiment at this stage of the country's progress. It is interesting to note, by the way, that in the federal general election last October, Manitoba returned twelve Liberals, two Liberal-Progressives, one Conservative and two C.C.F.s. This should be considered an event casting its shadow before.

"This Troubled World"

MR. MAX BEERBOHM, THE BRITISH author and critic, admits that he is profoundly disturbed by the condition of the world today. Presenting the Femina Vie Heureuse and Heineken prizes for works of fiction, he said: "I think you will agree that we live in a dark era and in a troubled world—in a world in which conditions are not very obviously favorable to the production of solid work in the Arts—a world full of national doubts and suspicions, fears and terrors. There is hardly a land—there is not, I think, a land which can be called 'blessed'."

Mr. Beerbohm recalled that when he was young it was only in South America that there seemed to be any unrest at all. Mexico seemed to be always in trouble. "For all I know," he said, "she may be as disturbed as ever, but she does not attract notice any longer because we have so many other perturbed and perturbing countries to think of, besides our own." He spoke about the days when people did not have to bother about the news, when the painter rushed to his easel and the writer walked slowly toward his desk without having glanced at the political part of the paper. Politics did not really matter to those days.

"Has the world any future—I mean any civilized future?" he asked. "That remains to be seen. Perhaps we shall presently have destroyed all the civilization we have achieved. We do not want to do it but we are at the mercy of forces which perhaps cannot be controlled—inhabitants of a volcanic range. Who knows that we shall not soon be mere remains beneath the lava?"

The conclusion Mr. Beerbohm drew from his gloomy forebodings was that artists should write and paint, sculpt and compose while there was yet time. With him we must agree that that leisurely age of cultured dilettantism has disappeared, probably for ever, but although it produced much brilliant and original—if slightly "precious"—work, the best art seems always to have overcome all difficulties.

"Out of Their Wits"

MR. ALFRED DUFF COOPER, BRITAIN'S Minister of War, reports trouble getting enough men to enlist in the army under the expansion programme recently adopted by the British government. He said at a London luncheon meeting the other day: "It is difficult to persuade our own people of the dangers that lie ahead. We are told we should never frighten people. But it is the duty of those in authority to frighten the people of this country out of their wits. I remember very well the summer of 1914, when grave warnings were issued by Field Marshal Earl Roberts. The situation in Europe today is far worse than it was in 1914. There is no man with the slightest knowledge of it who would deny that statement, and still we are joking and laughing and refusing to face facts."

A member of the British cabinet proclaims his nation in greater danger now than it was on the eve of the Great War. Yet the only solution offered is the solution of 1914—warships, guns and airplanes, which nearly wrecked the civilization of the whole world.

It may be, as Mr. Duff Cooper says, that people need to be "frightened out of their wits." But the result might go farther than the objective of greater armaments he has in view. For if the plain people of the world could once be made to understand the holocaust that seems to be in preparation for them, and to fear it as they ought to fear it, they might force an end to the selfishly nationalistic policies their governments have been pursuing.

And Now Switzerland

EVEN LITTLE, PEACEFUL, AND scenically delightful Switzerland has been literally pushed into the armaments race. Her National Council felt the other day that it had to approve a vote of $75,000,000 for the complete overhaul of the country's defensive equipment. As a dispatch from London tells us, to meet these expenditures in a country of only 4,000,000 people will be a heavy burden, but the Swiss, having had experience of Nazi propaganda and methods lately, object strongly to dictatorial regimes, and as thorough democrats want, at any cost, to guard their homeland from undesirable influences.

There is something especially tragic about this news. It was little Switzerland that, during the days of the war, suffered economically to an extent of which we of the New World have no adequate conception. The Swiss are peaceful people. Within her borders are the descendants of three dominant continental European races—French, German, and Italian. They live together peacefully. Take the funicular railway up Pilatus, that majestic peak which towers above Lucerne, and you will hear in that train dozens of languages—but all in the language of tranquil and delightful Switzerland. On the steamer which crosses the "Lake of the Four Cantons"—past Tell's Chapel, on to Fludlen, where the "diligence" takes one to Altdorf, where the apple was supposed to have been split by Tell, there is that same cosmopolitanism.

Go to Italian Switzerland, or French Switzerland, and the same babel of voices will be heard. But underneath all of this easily can be discovered admiration of the Swiss—a hatred of those things which mean disturbance of peaceful tradition. So it is small wonder that the little Alpine republic, depending so much for its economic subsistence on the friendly visits of other people, is so much enraged that it, in its own defence, must spend money on what, after all, may ruin it economically.

Notes

Backward races are the ones that still have to kill people by hand.

Mussolini should have little trouble settling Ethiopia as he can always exile political enemies.

An Indian millionaire offers $100,000 for an insomnia cure. It has been suggested he might try counting Europeans under dictators jumping through hoops.

"Leonardo da Vinci spent twelve years painting the lips of Mona Lisa." According to their husbands, some modern women can touch up their own quicker than that.

"We are swept," says Rupert Hughes, the novelist, "by successive attempts to redeem the world by the economics of Cinderella and the determination to vote pumpkins into coaches, rats into horses." Or scrip into real money, he might add if he looks towards Alberta.

An item farm papers will delight in copying: A country Democrat attending the convention last week ordered a steak in a Philadelphia restaurant. When his bill came he discovered he had to pay $4. He leaped to his feet with a shriek. "Why last week," he said, "I sold a whole cow for $4."

Chancellor of the Exchequer Neville Chamberlain has warned the British taxpayers that they may expect another budget deficit—due to the large appropriations which have been made for more armaments. What a cheerful prospect for those millions who are trying to keep body and soul together on a mere pittance!

Already there are positive indications that the United States electorate will take an unprecedented interest in voting this fall. In the recent Maine primary, for instance, unofficial totals reveal a vote exceeding that of 1932. And in recent primaries in other states, the public interest has shown up equally well. This is one of the most healthful trends of the times. Use of the ballot is a prerequisite of good citizenship. It is good to remember, too, that in a world already half-muffled under dictatorships, those who share this continent with us continue to vote as they please!

Loose Ends

The outsiders perceive our happiness more clearly than we do—but out spirits go up remarkably—the new island sport progresses—and a black man tells us what we are.

HAPPY FOLK

IN THE LAST WEEK or so I have talked to about a dozen tourists from Canada and the United States. One and all they are quite insane, in a more-or-less violent way, about Victoria. They say there is no other place like it on earth, that if they had the money they would immediately sell all their goods and chattels and come here to live and die. They all join in proclaiming loudly that the people of Victoria must be the happiest, the most contented and certainly the most fortunate on earth.

Just to live here, even on a crust, as a rich gentleman from New Orleans told me, he had a suite of four rooms in a hotel, a limousine and negro chauffeur would be ample reward for anyone, with only a crust, he repeated.

A lady from Chicago sent me a poem about Victoria quoting Wordsworth's lines about the French Revolution—"to be alive (in Victoria) was bliss, but to be young was very heavenly." Having met on the subject of Victoria, all of them.

But it makes you pause to think. It makes you realize how little you appreciate your remarkable fortune, your incredible luck to be one of some 70,000 persons among the whole teeming millions of the human race to be set down in this place. It makes you ashamed as you hear these outsiders rave, to think that there is any unhappiness here at all, anyone writing to the papers to complain about the economic system or the Little White Bear in Beacon Hill.

Alas, how inadequately we live up to the foreigner's vision of us as a simple rustic race laughing at life like the South Sea Islanders. As a matter of fact, we are deadly earnest, melancholy, almost morbid as a community, enjoying our pleasures sadly. If we are to become a great tourist Mecca we ought to achieve a new character more in harmony with our surroundings. The only thing that mars these joyous surroundings are the inhabitants. You and I are the only blots on an otherwise perfect landscape. This is too bad for the tourists, but I suppose we deserve a certain amount of consideration. This is a fact usually forgotten.

THERMOMETER

YET IS IS enlightening and cheering, also, to see how even the solemn and somewhat sombre mentality of this part of the world—the result of too many grey days of winter—the winter is moved by the currents of the times. If a scientist could have kept a thermometer of the public's spirits in the last year he would have found them going up from about forty below zero to around eighty in the shade. In six months the whole outlook of the public has been completely altered.

Fellows who were confident six months ago that the economic system had reached its last gasp and must inevitably collapse before this spring, are saying now that it may last for two or three years yet in a state of artificial boom. Fellows who never thought at all don't understand what has happened, but a kind of blind human instinct communicated from their fellows, tells them that things are good and they are going out and buying new automobiles.

I dare say it could be proved by statistics that the average man's income, in actual purchasing power, taking into consideration the advance in prices, has not increased ten per cent in the last year. Perhaps, as prices have gone up faster than wages, he is worse off. But this doesn't matter to him. The point is that he feels better. The business index may go up twenty-five points, but the human index immediately jumps fifty. If the business index drops twenty-five points the human spirits sink about a hundred.

In the pit of the depression, most people in Canada were pretty well off, but nobody thought about that—only about those in distress. Everybody felt broke, even though prices being low, things are better off than ever. Now that he is a little easier most people forget those in distress, though they are about as numerous as ever. Everybody feels prosperous though he may have less spending power than he had in 1933.

It is contrary to all statistics and flouts all the laws of economics and any banker can tell you it is absurd. But actually it is only a real truth about anything, the only sound wisdom, because everything depends, not on statistics and sound banking practice, but on the way you look at it. The way we look at everything now is undoubtedly all wrong, but it is probably the wisest thing to do under the circumstances. The only trouble is that when the economic index goes down and men whose income is increased by lower prices will cut their servants' wages and refuse to buy a new automobile.

PROGRESS REPORT

MY FRIENDED up the island who is doing the government's duty for it by removing tin advertising signs off the highways, tells me it is a more satisfactory sport than catching fish or shooting birds. The sport just now is at its best, he tells me, as a new hatch of signs has lately appeared and the present warm weather doubtless will bring out many more. On a good day, he tells me, he sometimes gets as many as a dozen. History will not soon forget the picture of a tiny black man telling the great chiefs exactly what they are.

SPECTACLE

THE SPECTACLE of the little black man, Mr. (formerly Emperor) Haile Selassie, addressing the League of Nations seems to be about the most humiliating thing which has befallen the white race for a long time. Here was a black man telling the great white powers of the world that they had broken their most solemn covenants, behaved as no honest man could behave to another, completely stifled themselves in the eyes of history. And there was no answer to Mr. Selassie. Everybody knew it was true, and it must have been rather hard for the white statesmen to take, coming from the black ex-king of an African tribe. History will not soon forget the picture of a tiny black man telling the great chiefs exactly what they are.

The white chiefs, of course, would have been mad to plunge into a world war and destroy their civilization to save the far inferior civilization of Mr. Selassie. This country would have been criminally insane to sacrifice a single soldier to defend the boundary of an African tribe. But the point is that we had promised to do these things, we had boasted of our superior white man's civilization and flattered ourselves that it was more honorable than that of the black and yellow races. Here was the test of it.

After what has happened to Mr. Selassie at Geneva, the only decent thing a southerly like this can do is to announce frankly that it isn't going to fight for anyone unless it feels like it. While it is only common decency, as we think, we are practicing fraud.

BEER PRICES TOO HIGH?

Government Should Take Over Breweries As Well As Parlors, Operator Suggests; Costs and Profits Estimated

To the Editor:—The much discussed question of the government operating beer parlors is very interesting, especially to a beer parlor proprietor who has always maintained beer was too high in price and has done his bit to give the public a five-cent glass of beer. I have sold two glasses of beer for fifteen cents for the past four years.

There are 4,000 ounces in a barrel of beer, which we pay $23.50, which includes the fifty cents per barrel license fee. The government is paying the Pacific Coast Breweries Agents Limited $17.60 per barrel for draft beer which gives them a spread of $6.40 per barrel, not including the barrel license fee. Therefore, out of the $23.50, which is the amount stated that the beer parlors paid for beer in the last year, the government received $631,104.91, plus fifty cents per barrel license fee on $16,882 barrels, which is $838,441, plus $156 per each license holder, which is approximately $252,600, and the government does not handle the draft beer as it is delivered direct from the brewers!

The cost per barrel to manufacture is $6.90; that is fifty pounds of malt, $1.65; two pounds of hops, twenty-five cents; sugar, water and power, $2.20; plus $3 federal tax.

It is interesting to know that the government is paying $7 per barrel more in this province than the amount paid per barrel to the Quebec breweries, although the cost of manufacture is the same as it is here. Also, the government is now paying $1.48 per dozen for bottle beer to the B.C. brewers, while they can lay down eastern beer here for eighty-five cents per dozen, plus twenty-nine cents per dozen freight, or a total of $1.14 per dozen. If the government sees fit to over-pay the brewers here thirty-four cents per dozen for bottle beer and $7 per barrel for draft, which is more than they would ever make by taking over the beer parlors, why don't they take over the manufacture of beer as well? Why protect the brewers and their small actual outlay compared with the large investments of beer parlors?

This is a British country and it would not be British to take over one part of the beer business by force and protect the manufacturing end of it.

There has been a reduction in most hard liquors of 25 per cent in the past few years, but no reduction in draft beer, the working man's beverage. So give him his due—a five-cent glass of beer.

If the government thinks the beer parlors are making too much profit take them over by all means; also the manufacturing of beer, and let them try to make a profit in the same manner as they run their railways, etc.

LONDON NIGHT CLUBS

From a London Correspondent
It is a deplorable fact, but I can hardly find one restaurant in London at which the cabaret artists are British.

The majority are American, and they are all billed as "Broadway's Most Smashing Hit." Some are good, some are indifferent, but, as to relate, they are all better than any English, Scotch, Irish or Welsh artists that I have seen entertaining the "night livers."

The unusual thing, however, is that the biggest "draw" at the moment is French. Americans do speak more or less the same language as we do, so that the language difficulty does not arise with them, but seeing that very

A tramp travels and does not work.
A bum neither travels nor works.

Fine weather was enjoyed by members of the Sussex Fellowship of Victoria Saturday afternoon at the annual picnic held at the Chateaux, Deep Cove. At the meeting held later, the following officers were elected for the year 1936-37: President, F. J. Crowhurst; hon. secretary, C. V. Milton; treasurer, W. Howard; committee, Mrs. Leeder, E. W. Izard, H. P. Hope, W. Cull and J. Frank.

An exciting game of stool-ball, the ancient English bat and ball game, was enjoyed. Races for all ages, and a treasure hunt completed the programme.

The results for the day were: Stool-ball, F. J. Crowhurst's team defeated H. P. Hope's side in a two-inning match, 70 runs to 55; children under nine, Pat Jackson; children over nine, Ian Leiper; ladies' race, 1 Felicity Grant, 2 Mollie Milton, 3 Kitty Hammond; men's handicap, 1 E. Simpson, 2 C. V. Milton and F. J. Crowhurst (dead heat).

H. P. Hope, retiring president, was accorded a vote of thanks on the completion of a successful first year. The next fellowship event will be a "Major Bowes" concert, to be held at Cranleigh House School on the second Friday in August.

Twenty-five Years Ago Today

(From The Times Files)

Yesterday afternoon witnessed the departure of the J.B.A.A. oarsmen for the N.P.A.A.O. regatta at Portland, which takes place tomorrow and the next day and in which the local crews fully expect to annex their share of the honors. There is no doubt that they will do so as with Portland crews they are heralded as the strongest competitors.

Considerable interest has been awakened by reports circulated locally of rich placer grounds having been discovered in the Willow River country, about twenty-five miles east of Port George. There are a number of men now in that district and there are stories of rich strikes being discovered daily.

Thousands of July 4 holiday makers slept on the sands of the various beaches around Los Angeles last night because the law limiting railroad men to sixteen working hours stopped traffic at 1:15 o'clock yesterday and prevented the suburban lines from bringing them home.

STORIES IN STAMPS

By I. S. Klein

POET-PRESIDENT

The tyrannous Juan Manuel Ortiz de Rosas was ruling Argentina with an iron, dictatorial hand, about 100 years ago. Against him a few intellectuals dared to raise their voices. One was the young poet, Bartolome Mitre, whose fiery protests alone caused his exile into Bolivia. There Mitre joined other exiles and, backed by the governments of Brazil and Uruguay, they attacked the army of De Rosas. Rosas fled to England in 1851.

Mitre proceeded to write a constitution for the republic. It was patterned after that of the United States. His popularity increasing as a result, he became president of Argentina in 1862. Heading an unsuccessful revolt against a later leader, whom he had opposed, he was imprisoned and then released. He published what is now one of the greatest newspapers in Buenos Aires, wrote a history of his country, and then retired. He died in 1906, at the age of eighty-five.

Mitre's portrait appears on Argentina's stamps of 1888, 1890, and again in 1921, issued on the centenary of his birth. The latter is shown here.

EXIT CARD SAVES GAME

Declarer Throws Opponent Into Lead and Forces Him to Play Away From King or Queen

By WM. E. MCKENNEY

Many bridge players, even after they have mastered the value of cards of entry, still fail to appreciate the value of cards of exit. These are cards by which the lead can be placed in the hand of a chosen opponent, then to force a play favorable to declarer.

R. E. Needham, of Greenville, Pa., who directs the Conneaut Lake bridge tournament, which will be held at Conneaut Lake, Pa., July 15 to 19, was declarer on today's hand, which illustrates not only the value of a small card in the opponent's established suit, but produces a combined squeeze and end play to fulfill the contract.

Needham, sitting in the South, could see eight tricks, but unless the queen of hearts fell on the second round, which appeared improbable, it seemed that East and West had to get three more club tricks, and a trick in either hearts or spades.

To clear up the situation, however, he played four rounds of diamonds. West dropped a spade on the third round, and when he played a club on the fourth round South decided that he was in difficulties trying to protect both majors. So after taking one round of hearts, he led the nine of clubs.

At the tenth trick, West was obliged to choose between leading away from the king of spades or the queen of hearts. He chose the spade, but South's queen won the trick and the contract was fulfilled.

Good Crowd At Park Concert

Despite uncertain weather conditions which limited the number of outdoor listeners, a good-sized weekend audience yesterday afternoon heard the concert presented at Beacon Hill Park by William F. Tickle and his orchestra. Several hundred cars lined the park roadway.

The programme was of higher and more popular vein than the regular concert, with Miss Doreen Wilson contributing the vocal selections.

Miss Wilson sang "If I Should Lose You," "Indian Love Call," selections from Prima's "Romance" and Strauss's

Bennett Raps Out At Socialist Idea

Even Russia Taking Back Slice of Capitalism, Says Conservative Leader at Reception Here; Defects of Present System Must Be Remedied

"Socialism means a leveling down, not up; a dragging down of all to the level of uninitiated. . . . Socialism talks of equality, but there is no equality in man; it is a question of endowment. . . . Like all prescriptions socialism is a medicine and not even patented at that. It is a blind appeal to prejudice and passion."

In an appeal for stable government in Canada here Saturday night, Rt. Hon. R. B. Bennett, Conservative leader in the House of Commons, directed the above remarks toward the proposals of the Co-operative Commonwealth Federation.

Mr. Bennett spoke for seventy minutes at a reception given him in the Campbell Building by the Victoria Conservative Association. A capacity audience heard him, presided over by E. W. Maynard, president.

WORK FOR REWARDS
Capitalism, said the opposition leader, had its defects, but it maintained an essential principle that man should work for his rewards.

Even in Russia, where Communism had been tried, they had now taken a slice of capitalism.

"We are not going to abolish this system unless we can find a better one," he said. "It has not been found yet."

"The defect really is not in the system but in us, and it is up to us to remedy it. We must see that abuses that have crept into our system shall be destroyed."

CONSERVATIVES MUST LEAD
Conservatives, he claimed, must take the lead because the Liberals followed a laissez faire policy which would produce nothing.

Mr. Bennett reiterated his attitude on employment insurance saying Canada must move forward to a greater measure of social justice.

Conditions could not be improved by arousing class hatred by appeals to passion and prejudice. Envy and hatred went hand in hand and had no part in the building of a nation.

Reverting to the last election, which put him out of power, Mr. Bennett said that it had been a manifestation against conditions expressed through votes against the government.

"I have no quarrel with them for that. At the time of the French revolution the same resentment was expressed with bullets. In our time it is expressed with ballots and heads stay on their shoulders," he said.

LIBERAL POLICY
Mr. Bennett also criticized Liberal policy. The Liberals had gone into office on promises of work for all, that credit was a social problem and other pledges, but in office it had been a case of public works, appropriations, provincial aids, grants for relief, loans to railways and even a "Bribe-Bribe-Charge". The Bank of Canada was now owned in just the same way.

Mr. Bennett was heartily applauded at points in his speech and at the finish.

Hon. Groe—Stirling, Conservative member for Yale, spoke briefly, saying Canada would need the co-operation of all its citizens in solving the problems before it.

R. A. Wootton, now president of the B.C. Conservative Association, paid tribute to Mr. Bennett's energy and devotion to duty while in office. In a social hour which followed Mrs. F. Knowles, Mrs. S. Sherratt and A. Jackson contributed to the programme.

Mr. Bennett left on the Sunday afternoon boat on his return home.

SUMMER SESSION

London, July 6 (Canadian Press from Havas).—A session of Parliament this summer was hinted in an article by the political editor of The Sunday Express. Because of the international situation, members will be asked not to go too far distant from London, while the higher officials of the Foreign Office will be required to remain at their posts, said The Express.

QUEBEC FARM BONUS SCHEME

Premier Godbout Outlines Programme of Agricultural Aid and Minimum Wages

Canadian Press

Quebec, July 6.—Premier Adélard Godbout of Quebec in a speech yesterday evening outlined the government's programme which included farmers' bonuses and minimum wages for workmen not protected by a collective labor agreement.

The Premier combined his outline of government policy with a plea for clean elections and added the promise that in future, "members of the governments will not be allowed to be directors of companies which have business with the government."

Mr. Godbout promised the Dillon law would be abrogated. The Dillon law requires the complainant in an election contestation suit to post a $1,000 bond personally.

BONUS FOR FARMERS
Speaking to the province's farmers, Mr. Godbout, who is Agriculture Minister, said the problem of the land was one of economic necessity and logical economic policy demanded that all efforts be made towards agricultural expansion.

"Farmers established in old rural centres will receive a bonus of $10 an acre, up to five acres, each year, for lands which need to be cleared, drained and otherwise placed in a state for proper culture," he said.

And to help the farmer meet foreign competition the government planned, a butter bonus of 3 cents a pound and a bonus of 1½ cents a pound on cheese to run from October 1 to May 1 to compensate for high winter production costs.

PAYMENT FOR PIGS

From November 1 to August 1, he said, the government proposed to pay a bonus of $1.50 for each pig raised by Quebec farmers and classified as "select" and $1 for each pig classified as "bacon."

From August 1 to November 1 these bonuses would be $1 and 75 cents, respectively. In addition the Premier said the government planned to pay 25 per cent of the cost of building modern piggeries with a maximum of $100 a piggery.

"As another step to aid agriculture, the government will appropriate $2,500,000 to intensify the policy of land drainage," the Premier said. "The sugar beet industry will be stimulated by bonus payments and the government will lend special efforts towards stock breeding."

Mr. Godbout said an office would be established to dispose of agricultural products. It would do double duty, directing production and selling produce through agents in London and New York.

COLONIZATION AID

The Premier promised $5,000,000 would be directed towards colonization. "Colonists will be chosen for their integrity and competence and bonuses for clearings will be raised from $10 to $15 an acre up to five acres a year and until thirty acres have been cleared and put into cultivation and twenty acres actually ploughed," he said.

"In effect, bonuses which are deserved should replace allocations for unemployment here, as elsewhere," added the Premier. "Relief works will replace charity."

FOUR HURT WHEN TRAINS COLLIDE

Associated Press

Cleveland, July 6.—Four persons received minor injuries early today when the second section of the Big Four railroad's Missourian ran into the first section near North Eaton, southwest of here.

The limited train was en route from St. Louis to New York, with eleven cars in the first section and four in the second. The injured were brought to a Cleveland hospital. Officers of the railroad said the cause was not immediately determined.

HOUSE OF SHADOWS

by Ida R. Gleason

BEGIN HERE TODAY

CLARE FOSDICK sets out to drive to the lonely mountain home left her by her eccentric uncle, LYMAN FOSDICK. Clare is trying to decide whether to marry NICK BAUM, to whom she owes money. She also hopes to find a valuable and mysterious jewel buried by her uncle and believed to be hidden in the house.

Her search is aided by a log across the road. PAT MAMAN, an old friend and BOB STEELE, young engineer, arrive on the scene and take Clare to the mountain house where EB SPRATT and his sister, SUSIE, are the caretakers.

DAN DALLAS, the hired man, reports that the watchdog has been shot.

NOW GO ON WITH THE STORY

A menacing chill seemed to grip the room, focusing upon Dan Dallas who held the dead dog in his arms. Why should anyone kill the watchdog? The answer suddenly seemed to come. Evidently someone else was interested in the House of Long Shadows.

In spite of Clare's effort to shake off the sinister impression, she felt a shudder of inexplicable terror. Bob Steele looked at her anxiously and then said, "I think we'd better give things the once over, and the sooner we start the better."

Susie was sobbing softly. "Poor Trigger! The poor old dog!" Then she wiped her eyes. "Come on, Dan. Get a lantern and help me bury him. We'll dig a grave down in the aspen grove."

"If you don't mind, Miss Spratt, I think you'd better not do anything about the dog tonight. It might be just as well for you to stay inside until tomorrow," suggested Pat.

The woman turned with a surprised expression. "What do you mean? Of course it was an accident, just like the log falling down on the road. Probably some hunter took the dog for a wild animal."

"We're not so sure of that, Susie," answered Clare.

For a minute a look of fear showed on Susie's tear-streaked face. Then she shook her head and said, "You'll be saying next that Eb and he ain't very good caretakers. You haven't found anything wrong, have you?"

"Not a thing, Susie, and I don't expect to," Clare assured her. "But I agree with Mr. Maman. You'd better not go out to bury the dog until morning."

"Just as you say, Clare," Susie's tone showed she was still unconvinced. "But that log just happened to fall down and it must have been a mistake about Trigger. I'm sure of that."

As the door closed behind Susie and the man, Bob Steele turned to Clare. "This came with the compelling eyes—you don't figure she'd lie to you, do you, Clare? She rather overdoes the protesting act."

"I've never known her to lie," Clare answered. "Susie's inclined to be flighty at times, but her brother keeps a firm hand on her. She's been with the family ever since she was a very young girl, except three years when she worked in the city. We've always trusted her implicitly."

Pat laughed. "Put up, Bob. Faithful family retainers and all that stuff. No good trying to work up any case against them. Come on, let's have off."

The next hour was spent in going over every inch of the old house, much to Eb Spratt's disgust. In his opinion, night was the time for sleeping, not prowling up the down stairs.

"It's bad for my rheumatism," he grumbled to go into the privacy of the kitchen. "This stayin' up 'til all hours just because a lot o' youngsters don't know enough to go to bed. Why heat value, clothing now is made with cotton on one face and wool on the other."

Tests made by investigators showed that ribbed-knit cotton stretch from one-third to one-half in washing. Cotton flannels and fleeced garments lose much of their fuzz in washing. Woolen fabrics, rayon, and birds-eye are not changed much by washing.

In hospitals, knitted diapers have been found to outward over varieties. Most people nowadays must consider the costs of various fabrics. Cotton is the cheapest. Cotton and rayon mixtures cost slightly more. Wool and cotton, or wool and rayon, are next most expensive.

Pure wool is still more costly, and silk and wool is the most expensive mixture.

Metchosin branch of the W.A. will hold its annual garden party in the grounds of "Dorchester," the home of Mr. and Mrs. H. E. Bell, on Tuesday, July 14, from 3 to 6 o'clock. Arrangements for tea are in the hands of the president, Miss F. Bythe, Mrs. H. E. Bell, Mrs. H. M. Bolton and Mrs. F. Reid.

High quality products will be offered for sale by the following stallholders: Miss K. Chegwain, home cooking; Mrs. C. Helgesen, candy; Mrs. F. Reid, ice cream and Mrs. Osborne, books. A novel feature of the entertainment events being arranged by Mrs. G. F. Weir, will be the dog show. The exhibit will consist of toy dogs, largely of the pottery variety. Clock golf and archery will have a place on the programme and a small group of juniors, under the direction of the local branch president, Miss N. Bolton, will present a short play on the lawn.

PLUCKY WOMAN
London (Canadian Press).—Mrs. A. Bower, a sixty-six-year-old woman, was rescued from a burning house after her premises and held him until police arrived.

do they want to pick this time of night to look the place over?"

The tall old clock in the library was striking midnight when finally the three young people decided to call a halt in the unsuccessful search. Pat threw himself into a big chair and wiped his forehead. "Whew! I'll begin to sprout sideburns myself if I stay here long. All this old-fashioned grandeur. I'll bet if anyone should try to turn in here, it would be some nut on the track of a carved walnut bedstead or something."

"Probably it's too dark to make it worth while looking around outside tonight, isn't it?" asked Bob.

"Goodness yes," answered Clare. "We'd better call it a day and get a fresh start in the morning."

Accordingly, rooms were assigned to the young men and, after bidding them good-night, Clare lit a glass lamp and made her way up the noisy stairs to the bedroom directly under the cupola.

It was a large room and had been Lyman FOSDICK'S. Everything in it remained as he had left it.

Warily pulling off her riding boots, she climbed up on the high four-poster bed and threw herself down. Tired as she was, the thought of the mysterious shot that had found its mark in the dog, still persisted, carrying with it a subtle warning.

What was this unseen force that seemed to be closing about her? She stirred restlessly. Nick Baum and his hold on her father. These two young men whose path had crossed hers so curiously. What did she really know about them, anyway? Pat had said the dog was alive when they went around to the barn—but was it still alive when they came back into the house? Susie and Eb. And where did Dan Dallas fit into the picture.

Claire's mind swung back to Pat Maman, and she smiled in the darkness. Had it been Pat? She hoped so, though she did not ask herself why. A reticent, careful newspaper man with an inflexible smile and Irish blue eyes shaded by very black lashes—well, what of it? Bob Steele had blue eyes, too, very nice eyes, and he had looked at her with the same admiration that many men had given her.

They were both very different from Nick Baum, but she was fond of the handsome. His manner was everything a woman could desire, too.

Claire shivered a little as the coolness of the mountains crept about her. Resolutely she closed her eyes and determined to go to sleep.

But the next instant she was bolt upright in bed, every nerve straining to hear something—she was not sure what. Had some spirit of the long ago come into the room? Or had it been merely the sound of the night wind in the old pine tree? Could it be that she had been aroused by fancy of her own?

She listened intently and finally lay down again, feeling a little foolish. Then it came again. This time the tapping noise from the wall near the head of her bed was more explained away. Gently, regularly, the muffled sound pierced the stillness.

Once—twice. She caught herself numbering the beats as though she were counting a pulse. All power of movement seemed drained from her, except the ability to mark the sound.

With an effort she got out of bed and fumbled for the lamp. Her fingers shaking, she touched a light to the wick. The feeble yellow gleam that cut an arc in the shadows brought a feeling of relief. The noise had stopped now. She pulled on her boots, wondering if after all there wasn't some commonplace explanation. Anyway, she would look behind the bed—that is, if she could budge it out from the wall. She eyed its majestic bulk doubtfully.

Putting her shoulder to the nearest post, she exerted all her healthy young strength. After one or two attempts, she managed to widen a space from the wall through which to squeeze her slender body. Carrying the lamp, she carefully investigated everything within the circle of light. The ornately figured paper was less faded than on the other walls, but there was no mark of any kind or any sign that the wall was not of the same solidity as the rest of the room.

Feeling somewhat disappointed, Claire backed out of the narrow space and set the lamp on the floor so that she could move the bed back. The light fell on the baseboard and she saw a sign in the shape of a broken crayon, a faint scribble, the carving on the mantel in the library. The arrow pointed toward the hall outside the room. Here a narrow stairway led to the cupola above.

It must mean—those stairs, Claire reasoned, since nothing else broke the expanse of that wall except a small bookcase.

Excitedly she put on her coat and lamp in hand, climbed the creaky steps to the cold, drafty cupola. It was a round, open structure with a conical roof, boasting an imposing weather vane. The cupola made a fine lookout when the owner of the House of Long Shadows had wished to view the country around. Claire had been up there many times and, even in the darkness, had the sensation of long vistas of far valleys and roads, though she could not actually see them now.

The wind whipped sharply about her and a bat swooped past her in the darkness. With a shiver, Claire began to look along the wall and floor for another sign. The old cupola in the dark of night had lost all its fascinating daylight charm. It was a place of sinister menace.

Her search was unrewarded and she decided to go back to bed. But first she walked to the railing that guarded the lookout. As she stood peering down into the darkness suddenly, without warning, the glass lamp in her hand was shattered into bits, putting out the light. The girl stood, stunned in frozen terror. The menace that hung over the place had struck again—this time at her.

She fumbled her way to the door and raced down the stairs, one thought only in her mind. Someone had tried to shoot her, just as Trigger had been shot.

Panic-stricken, Claire ran down the hall. Pat's door jerked open and he rushed to her. Afterward she remembered he, too, was fully dressed.

"What is it, Claire? What's happened?" He caught her and held her close with one arm when she stumbled against him, while he struck a match with the other hand and lighted a lamp that was on a table.

Gasping, she told him, clinging to him like a frightened child. "Shot at you!" His mouth set in a hard line.

"And there wasn't any sound."

"Yes, and there was a silence."

"We didn't hear the shot that got you, either. I'm going to get that devil or know the reason why! Claire, if anything had happened to you—"

He looked down at her in a way that sent a warm thrill through her. For an instant she forgot her danger.

By this time the rest of the household had been aroused and Susie came running toward them, her face pale. "Claire—your hand!" she screamed, pointing to an ugly dripping gash on the girl's wrist.

Great Airport Being Planned

Portsmouth, England, July 6.—A new British air-centre was in the making today while mechanics tuned up the first flying boat of a proposed trans-Atlantic fleet.

The giant four-motored plane, prototype of the airliner with which Britain hopes to establish a trans-Atlantic service, made its first appearance on the slip-way at Rochester this week. Others are nearing completion.

The actual work of making Langston a combined land and marine base for empire and trans-Atlantic routes is expected to begin in another month.

Early next year, it is being predicted here, a service to North America will be under way, with two British and two United States flying boats arriving and departing weekly.

The Portsmouth town council has already approved the project of the airport, to be the largest of its kind in the world and to cost close to $6,000,000.

Government financial assistance is practically assured, some of it at least from the proposed new air navigation bill with its provision for a 50 per cent increase in air subsidies to $7,500,000 yearly.

STATESMAN IN CHINA SLAIN

Canadian Press From Havas.
Hongkong, July 6.—T. T. Ching, former Chinese finance minister, was assassinated here yesterday by a Chinese who fired three shots, mortally wounding the statesman, and then fled.

It is believed the murderer had a political motive. Police there are on the alert for the assassin and began an investigation.

I.O.D.E. Style Show Gay Affair

Colorful Beachwear Shown at "Windyhaugh"

The lovely gardens of "Windyhaugh," Fairfield Road, the home of Mrs. J. Hebbden Gillespie, afforded a delightful setting for the display of beach styles held under the auspices of the Major John Hebbden Gillespie Chapter I.O.D.E. on Saturday afternoon.

Mrs. Gillespie was assisted in receiving the guests by Mrs. J. Darcus, regent. The arrangements were in the capable hands of Mrs. Conway Parrott, assisted by Mrs. Carl Gonnason, Mrs. Harold Bray, Mrs. Peter Bell and Miss Dorothy Hartley, and acting as mannequins were Mrs. K. McCannell, Mrs. J. Schwenger, Mrs. Maurice Humber, Miss Ena Henderson, Miss Rhoda Clark and Miss Dorothy Allan.

Supplied by the Hudson's Bay Company, the styles shown were ideal for beach wear, for yachting or other informal sports wear. Pastel bathing suits trimmed with buttons and without skirts, sun suits demurely covered by matching frocks, beautiful tailored slacks, zippered and washable, and pyjamas in crash, seersucker and pique were shown. Ideal for yachting were the smart white flannel and striped jersey in cream, orange and brown worn by Miss Henderson. Mrs. McCannell wore an attractive two-piece garden outfit, in shades of green and yellow; Miss Rhoda Clark's striking bathing costume consisting of black trunk and skirt, and a matching top was worn with a bright scarlet terry cloth beach wrap. A three-piece suit with separate skirt in a cretione design was shown by Mrs. Schwenger.

Enormous cartwheel hats of light-weight straw in vivid colors and the final touch of smartness to these outfits, and make excellent sunshades.

STALLS ON LAWN
Stalls were arranged about the lawn. Mrs. Carl Gonnason and Mrs. Arthur Balcorn had charge of the home cooking; Mrs. A. J. Darcus and Mrs. Douglas Gordon, the candy, and the games were in charge of Mrs. Ian Douglas, Mrs. Dannie Hagar and Mrs. C. Blaney.

Mrs. Conway Parrott and Mrs. Peter Bell were the general conveners of the afternoon tea and were ably assisted by members of the chapter. The tea tables were centred by pretty little bowls of violets and greenery.

Garden Party At Lady Barnard's
Lady Barnard is kindly opening the lovely gardens at her home, "Clovelly," Sea Terrace, Esquimalt, on Tuesday afternoon for the annual garden party of the Mary Croft Esquimalt Chapter I.O.D.E. Recent Weddings

DILLABOUGH-CHATTON

St. Mary's Church, Oak Bay, was beautifully decorated with flowers on Saturday evening for the ceremony which united in marriage Dulcie "Vivian," younger daughter of Mrs. A. Chatton, 1612 Fell Street, and the late Mr. Chatton, to Mr. William B. (Bill) Dillabough, son of Mr. and Mrs. P. C. Dillabough, 3010 Quadra Street. The church was filled with friends of the popular young couple.

LOVELY FLOWERS

Tall standard baskets of blue delphinium, yellow alstroemeria, with silver maple and other greenery adorned the chancel rails and white sweet peas, tied with white ribbons, marked the guest pews. Mrs. J. Randall, aunt of the bride, having charge of the decorations.

Rev. Canon A. E. de L. Nunns performed the ceremony and Mr. Cyril Warren provided at the organ, and accompanied Mr. F. W. Francis, who sang "I Love You Truly" as the register was being signed.

Given in marriage by her brother, Mr. Albert Chatton of Los Angeles, the bride wore a form-fitting gown of bridal satin and a short jacket of lace, which tapered at the neck to a long train. Her veil of finest net, was arranged beneath a net halo outlined with seed pearls, held at the nape of the neck with orange blossoms. She carried a shower bouquet of lilies, Ophelia roses, white carnations and swansons.

THREE ATTENDANTS
Mrs. F. E. Grimshaw, sister of the bride, was matron of honor, in mauve, and Miss Lilian Reid, bridesmaid, in dusty pink, their frocks being fashioned alike of ruffled net with large matching hats of taffeta, with brims of spiderweb silk net and deep floral bandeaus at the back. The matron of honor carried a sheaf bouquet of mauve sweet peas, snapdragons and larkspur, and the bridesmaid carried pink sweet peas, snapdragons and larkspur. Their sandals matched their frocks and they both wore long white gloves.

The little flower girl, Marilyn Grimshaw, the bride's niece, wore a Kate Greenway frock of pink taffeta, with ruffles edging the long skirt, and a deep yoke buttoned down the front. Her pike bonnet was trimmed at the back with a large cluster of pastel flowers and she carried a Victorian poe of sweetheart rosebuds and plumage.

Mr. Frank Baylis was best man, and Mr. Hugh Francis and Mr. Robert Shanks were the ushers.

MANY AT RECEPTION
After the ceremony, a largely attended reception was held at the home of the bridegroom's parents. The reception rooms were beautifully decorated with blue delphinium, pink gladioli and pink roses in fragrant profusion, the young couple standing in the flower-embowered window embrasure to receive their guests.

Mrs. Chatton wore a gown of flowered chiffon and a large hat of light beige spiderweb net, trimmed with a cluster of flowers in front, and Mrs. Dillabough was in pale blue lace and a navy blue hat, and they both wore corsage bouquets of roses.

The supper table was beautifully decorated with pale pink roses and gypsophila in silver vases, and tall pink tapers in silver holders, a vase of pink roses topping the three-tier wedding cake. Mr. G. Brown, father of the bride, proposed the toast to her.

The many handsome gifts received by the young couple were on display. After a motor trip to Portland, Mr. and Mrs. Dillabough will reside in their new home at 2655 Avebury Avenue. The bride chose for travelling a tailored navy blue suit, a matching straw hat and navy and white accessories.

Kresges Dance Next Wednesday
Kresges Sports Club will hold another of its popular dances Wednesday evening next in the Crystal Garden, Charlie Lewis announced today. A good orchestra has been secured for the evening and dancers are guaranteed an enjoyable time. Dancing will start at 9 o'clock and terminate at 1 o'clock.

ROSS-TATLOW

Solemnized with impressive simplicity Saturday afternoon at 2 o'clock in the garden of "Ashcroft Manor," picturesque home of the bride's sister, Mrs. Pittman Cornwall of Ashcroft, was the service that united in marriage Margaret Garnett, youngest daughter of Mrs. Tatlow and the late R. G. Tatlow of Vancouver, and Mr. John David Ross, only son of Major-General J. M. Ross, C.M.G., D.S.O., and Mrs. Ross of London, Ont., formerly of Victoria.

Mr. Kenneth Tatlow of Victoria gave his sister in marriage and Mr. Anthony G. Osborne was best man for Mr. Ross. Rev. E. M. Bartlett officiated.

Exquisite handwork distinguished the ice blue frock of the bride. Created on tailored lines the dress was vested in embroidered white chiffon and pleated sleeves drew into hand-draw cuffs. A brief peplum rippled above the skirt that was pleated in panels both back and front.

Of the same fabric as the frock and adorned with self-material flowers was the bride's smart hat, while her flowers were Tallisman roses and gardenias in a corsage spray.

The wedding is of widespread interest throughout the Dominion, the principals being members of distinguished Canadian families. The bride is a granddaughter of the late H. J. Cambie and attended St. Michael's School in Vernon, later traveling extensively on the continent. Mr. Ross graduated from the Royal Military College at Kingston in 1929.

Mr. and Mrs. Ross will occupy the Osler Avenue residence of Mr. Leonard Wood in Vancouver on returning from their wedding trip.

COLLINGTON-GRAY
A quiet wedding was solemnized at the home of Mr. and Mrs. J. Gray, Arundel Drive, on Saturday evening, when their elder daughter, Olive, became the bride of Mr. Claude Collington, son of Mrs. B. Collington, Victoria. The rooms were arranged with summer flowers in pink and blue with colorful effect.

Rev. S. Howard conducted the service, and Mr. B. Floyd, accompanied by Miss Nora Sherwood, sang "O Perfect Love," as the register was being signed.

The bride, who was given away by her father, wore a lovely frock of pale pink georgette and carried a sheaf bouquet of butterfly roses, white heather and carnations. "She was attended by her sister, Miss Jean Gray, in a frock of yellow georgette, who held a bouquet of flowers in pastel shades. Mr. B. Barlow supported the groom. Supper was served after the service, from a table arranged with vases of flowers and tall pink candles in silver holders, and centered by the wedding cake.

After a wedding trip on the mainland, for which the bride left in a smart navy blue outfit, Mr. and Mrs. Collington will make their home in Port Alberni. Among the numerous beautiful gifts received by the young couple was a tea wagon from the office of the staff of the superannuation and civil service commission, Parliament Buildings, of which the bride had been a member.

Wanderwell Party Is In Malay

Former Victoria
Girl Seen In
Indo-China Wilds

Associated Press

Hollywood, Calif., July 6.—A fantastic far eastern trek of Aloha Wanderwell former Victorian and blonde widow of the mysteriously slain Capt. Walter Wanderwell was described today by a globe-trotting cinematographer.

The twenty-seven-year-old woman's husband was killed on his yacht Carme in San Pedro harbor four years ago on the eve of a cruise around the world.

James B. Shackelford returned with film shot by the Tay Garnett expedition, said she is now leading the "Walter Wanderwell Educational Expedition"—three tattered men companions and herself—through the back country of Indo-China.

"How the expedition ever penetrated hundreds of miles into the interior of southeastern Asia or how it was financed that far is a complete mystery, the cameraman declared. "Often, however, we heard of its movements as we journeyed through the Malay peninsula."

Miss Lightbody has just returned from Toronto, where she attended the executive meeting of the Presbyterian W.M.S. Council and the W.M.S. conference, and will give a report of both meetings.

Lodge Met—The regular meeting of the Queen of the Island L.O.A.B. was held recently, with Worthy Mistress Mrs. W. Baker in the chair. R.W. Grand Mistress of B.C., Mrs. F. Green of Salmon Arm paid her official visit, accompanied by the R.W. Deputy Grand Mistress, Mrs. E. Trowsdale of Victoria. Past Mistress Mrs. Harvey of Salmon Arm was also a visitor. The Grand Mistress gave a very interesting address, after which the Worthy Mistress, on behalf of the lodge, presented her with a gift and corsage bouquet, and also presented the D.G. Mistress, P.M. Mrs. Harvey, W.M. Mrs. M. Kendall, Victoria Purple Star Lodge, and W.M. Mrs. E. Burke with corsage bouquets. The next meeting will be held on Wednesday, July 8, at 7:30 o'clock, and will be followed by court whist and refreshments.

HONOR WOMAN DOCTOR

London (Canadian Press)—The memory of England's first woman doctor, Elizabeth Garrett Anderson, was honored at the hospital here bearing her name on the centenary of the founder's birth.

EXPENSIVE TEETH

London (Canadian Press)—Miss Eileen O'Shea, twenty-one, recovered from anaesthetic and found some of her front teeth missing. The dentist had to pay $1,250 and costs.

New in masculine beach accessories is a terry cloth cape designed on the swashbuckling lines of a military cape. It is white, with the deep military collar and pocket trim dark blue. The cape can also be used as a beach mat, or in an emergency, a towel.

LUNCHEON IS MEAL TO SERVE
CHILD MENU-BALANCING FOOD

By MARY E. DAGUE

Children must have a hearty noon meal, vacation or not. Hours of active play in the fresh air exhaust energy and make nourishing food necessary.

There are certain rules which govern the choice of a child's daily diet and some knowledge of these rules makes meal planning much easier. Every child should have in his diet every day one quart of milk. He should have three vegetables, one of which may be potatoes and one of the others raw or green. He should have two fruits, one preferably raw, fish or eggs. A whole grain cereal, three slices of bread or toast complete the list of food absolutely necessary to maintain a balanced diet and provide an adequate number of calories.

If a child does not want to drink his allotted quart of milk, it may be used over vegetables, in soups and in desserts.

MAKE FOOD ATTRACTIVE

All foods are better served as simply as possible, but care must be taken to make children's food palatable and attractive.

An easy way to plan a child's luncheon is to include in it those items in his daily food requirements that are not served at breakfast or dinner when the family are together. Then if he is given his broiled chop or meat cake at noon, he may have the dinner vegetables provided for the rest of the family in the evening.

Very often the luncheon dessert can be counted as the main dish, because a large amount of nourishment can be put into a pudding. This type of dessert seldom is served at dinner and adds variety if used for the noon meal.

When the dinner is hearty and at an early hour, a simple luncheon of raw vegetable sandwiches, one hot cooked vegetable, a glass of milk and a nourishing dessert proves most satisfactory for hot noons. A vegetable salad with plain bread and butter sandwiches can take the place of the sandwiches and a hot bouillon replace the hot vegetable.

Another point to keep in mind is that luncheon dishes should be easily digested because the noon meal comes at the hottest time of the day. Insist on fifteen minutes rest before the meal and half an hour of quiet in the shade afterwards.

HOT AND COLD AT SAME MEAL. Desserts for children should not be too sweet. Drinks of milk and eggs are nourishing, easily digested, quickly made and children generally like them. It is a good plan to serve a cup of hot bouillon or a hot vegetable dish when a cold milk and egg drink is served, however.

Fruit juices also can be combined with eggs to make nourishing and inviting drinks. When these are used a hot vegetable cream soup with sandwiches of lettuce or some other green vegetable rounds out the meal.

Recital Given By Piano Students

Pianoforte pupils of Miss Beatrice Griffin gave a most successful recital on Saturday evening in the Victoria Truth Centre. Miss Doris Lockyer, the guest artist, delighted the audience with her monologue, "A Little Accident," written by Ellen O'Brien.

Other items in the programme were: Trio, "Gavotte" (Fondy); Frank Moore, Leonard Johnson and Harmon Crosby, duet, "March" (Quint); Catherine Sweddon and Sam Dattiel; solo, "Study" (Guritt); and "Minuet in G" (Bach); Catherine Sweddon; solo, "Bold Pirate" (Kern).

X-RAY OPENING AT SOLARIUM

Formal opening of the new X-ray department installed at the Queen Alexandra Solarium through the efforts of the Royal Oak Women's Institute will take place tomorrow afternoon at 2:30 o'clock, a special bus leaving the Coach Lines depot at 1 o'clock. All subscribers to the fund and interested friends will be cordially welcomed.

Billy Dalziel; solo, "Minuet," "Sonatina" and "Album Leaf." Orso-Marie Douglas; solo, "Prelude in C Minor" (Chopin) and "Will o' the Wisp" (Jungmann). Myrtle Bent; solo, "Nocturne," Op. 55, No. 1 (Chopin) and "Waltz in A Flat" (Brahms). Marjorie White; solo, "Waltz" Op. 34, No. 1 (Chopin). Joyce Dalziel; solo, "Norwegian Bridal Procession" (Greig), Frances MacIvor; trio, "Le Secret" (Gautier), John Swainson, Frank Moore and Harmon Crosby; solo, "At Morn" (Godard), Frank Moore; solo, "Impromptu in C Sharp Minor" (Reinhold), John Swainson; solo, "Chanson Russe" (Smythe), Leonard Johnson; solo, "Bourree" (Bach), "Alt Wein" (Godevsky), Mora Gay; solo, "Nocturne" (Schumann), Martin O'Connell; solo, "Waltz in E Major" (Brahms), "Malaguena" (Lecuona), Peggy Stanley; duet, "Waltz of the Flowers" (Tchickowsky), Elsie Clark and Miss Griffin.

Heavy cotton net fashions this smart hot weather suit, created by Beville of London. It comes in black or navy with white stripes and is neatly tailored as the suit of moment that you were last spring. It is worn with a plique-trimmed, sleeveless vest that buttons down the front.

Weddings

TOLMIE-LADNER

Vancouver, July 6 (Canadian Press).—A wedding of interest throughout British Columbia and Alberta will take place at 3 o'clock today, when Helen Louise, eldest daughter of Mr. Leon J. Ladner, K.C., and Mrs. Ladner of Vancouver, becomes the bride of John Ross Tolmie, eldest son of Dr. J. A. Tolmie of Wayne, Alberta, and nephew of Dr. S. F. Tolmie, former Premier of British Columbia.

Rev. W. T. Keeling will officiate at the ceremony, which will be performed at St. John's Anglican Church here.

The bride studied art and languages in Brussels after attending the University of British Columbia and St. Michael's School at Vernon, and the groom graduated from the University of British Columbia. He was awarded the Rhodes scholarship in 1929, and studied at Brasenose College, Oxford University, in England.

After the ceremony a reception will be held at the home of the bride's parents, and later Mr. and Mrs. Tolmie will leave by airplane for New York, where they will embark for Europe on a honeymoon trip. On their return to Canada they will make their home in Ottawa.

YOUR CHILDREN

By Olive Roberts Barton

Mother, why do I have to put on a clean dress? I'm only going to play with Mary.

"Mrs. Green is stopping in to see about the programme for next year. I want her to see you looking nice because she is a most particular lady. Here's your best ditty. Come now."

And next day, "Betty, when you go to play with Mary this afternoon, don't drag old Calico-Ann with you. Take Marlene. And put your satin coverlet and pillow in the buggy."

"I don't like Marlene. I always play with Calico-Ann."

"Why do you persist in having that old rag doll along always? Mary's mother thinks you have no better doll. I want her to see the one your aunt brought you from New York."

GETTING SIDELONG VIEW. Next day, still, Betty wasn't allowed to have an ice-cream cone because a lady lecturer on children was visiting next door, and her mother wasn't sure of her views. Another time it was the child around the corner, "I would not have her here today, Betty," says her mother.

She comes in a torn dress sometimes and I'm having Mrs. Smithkin for lunch."

Betty is developing a "fan-eye," one that sees things to one side more clearly than things straight ahead. When she does anything her first thought is, "What would So-and-So think?"

"And why not?" ask a hundred mothers. "Isn't this all part of convention, comparable to our getting out the best linen and silver for guests, or donning our newest clothes for church? Isn't it just such standards that keep us from reverting, and cause us to stretch our efforts toward culture and decent living?"

Ah, yes. Surely they are right. If it wasn't for the Joneses of the world, what would we be like? I have always felt a reverence for the Joneses who at least make us keep our windows washed, stockings darned and spots off the tablecloth.

FORGETTING TO BE SELVES. However (there is always a "how-ever," and here's another) sometimes if we see only the Joneses we forget to be ourselves.

There is danger of Betty trying to care too much about what other people think. After a while she may figuratively be holding a false head above her own to show over the wall, as in the old Oriental plays, not her real self, but an artificial self to fool the public. And those who know will say, "What a pity she is so calculating and can't be just natural and nice!" She fools nobody. How much better would we like the real girl underneath.

To try to please people is a really fine lesson of childhood, but to overdo it and crush personality is different. If done in the spirit of show-off or "knock-em-dead," it is pretty wrong indeed. Naturally mothers have to save their own pride at times through their children and no one can blame them for that; but there is grave danger when this spirit governs to excess and behavior becomes too studied.

The frank, forthright child, who looks straight ahead, aware of but not overpowered by the gallery or side-lines is the one we love, and who will be most loved through life. (Copyright, 1936, NEA Service, Inc.)

Heard Her Own Funeral Rites

Liberty Falls, S.C., July 6.—Mrs. Butler Funderburk, critically ill, asked Rev. J. B. Little to conduct her funeral while she still was alive, so she could hear it.

So Mr. Little announced the "funeral service" and scores gathered for the solemn occasion. Mrs. Funderburk lay in her bed while prayers were offered and hymns were sung.

She requested that "Shall We Gather at the River" and "God Be With You Till We Meet Again" be sung, and the request was complied with.

A son, Egbert Funderburk, a deacon in the Liberty Hill Baptist Church, led the opening prayer and another son, Somond, led the singing.

Mr. Little took as his text: "My soul thirsteth for thee, O God; my flesh panteth for thee."

As the services ended, Mrs. Funderburk voiced her appreciation. She said she had wanted her funeral while she could still hear it.

Wednesday, Mrs. Funderburk, seventy-three, died. She was buried Thursday. Her six sons acted as pallbearers.

The same service she liked so much while she was alive was repeated at the graveside.

Your Baby And Mine

By MYRTLE MEYER ELDRED

PLAN AHEAD TO AVOID TROUBLE
ON YOUR VACATION

"I'm going away for two weeks' vacation," writes Mrs. Summer Traveler from everywhere, "and I'm wondering if the change of water and milk will hurt my baby."

This question, with variations, is the theme song of July and August. Of course no one can answer it positively in the affirmative or the negative. Too much depends upon the child, the vacation site and the care of individual parents.

THINGS TO CONSIDER

In the main there are several things to be considered. Parents need change and recreation, and children profit by getting used to change as well as to routine.

Also, we know that children flourish better who live under the influence of a regular routine, not too much excitement and few drastic changes in diet.

The chief obstacles to safety of travel are, of course, upset schedules, water, milk and insects.

WHAT TO GUARD AGAINST. Vacation sites may be cooler, which is an advantage. But ice boxes may be ancient and inadequate.

Water may come from dubious or little used sources and so represent a real danger.

Milk may come from nearby farmers whose care of the milk may be open to criticism.

Some knowledge of all of these items must be sought before small babies or children are divorced from the safeguards of their own homes. Boiled water is always safest to use, as well as boiled milk, when one is uncertain of their purity. Canned milk is easy to carry and need not be opened until ready to use, thus doing away with any danger incident to shortage of ice.

Our leaflet, "Traveling with Baby," offers further information to parents about to dash off for those precious vacation weeks. It may be had for a self-addressed and three-cent stamped envelope, sent to Myrtle Meyer Eldred of the Your Baby and Mine department of this newspaper.

Choose the site for your vacation carefully. Remember precaution against known dangers will insure its success.

Plane En Route To Montreal Crashes

Seeking to escape fog banks hovering over the Berkshire Mountains in Massachusetts, Henry J. Schiebel, Jr., of Roosevelt Field, L.I., landed his plane on a polo field at Pittsfield, Mass. The plane nosed over and remained in the position shown above. Ploughed ground at the side of the field and poor visibility caused the mishap. Schiebel's plane was one of the twenty-nine planes which took off on a trip from Roosevelt Field to Montreal. One of the planes crashed in Lake Champlain, killing four.

BOWLS CHAMP

Canadian Pacific Club Member Captures Island Singles Championship

Defeating M. Mossey, Burnside, 15 to 10, Pat Harris, Canadian Pacific Club, won the Peace Cup, emblematic of the island singles championship, at the Victoria Lawn Bowling Club on Saturday. Harris succeeds Alderman R. A. C. Dewar as island titleholder.

In the semi-final round Harris accounted for F. Harman, Burnside, 15 to 13, after a spirited match that witnessed some fine bowling. Mossey won his semi-final bracket from E. Myers, Burnside, 15 to 4. In the fourth round Myers had accounted for Alderman Dewar, 15 to 13. Sixty-two players took part in the competition.

Reg Wenman Performs Brilliantly as Incogs Beat Victoria Cricketers

Featured by the sensational bowling of Reg Wenman, who took nine wickets for thirty-one runs, the Victoria cricketers went down to defeat at the hands of the Incogs Saturday afternoon at the University school grounds by a score of 131 to 55.

Victoria was unable to do anything against the brilliant trundling of Wenman, who also turned in a steady exhibition at the crease, scoring thirty-two runs for his team to lead the individual batting total.

In a friendly match at Beacon Hill Park between the Victoria B eleven and the Albions, the former triumphed by a margin of thirty-three runs.

The Albions disposed of six wickets for eighteen runs until Nation and Moore took matters into hand and brought it up to seventy-three runs. Robertson came in and raised this to eighty-nine runs. The Albions could score only fifty-five runs when they had their innings due to the steady bowling of Jordan.

Dutch Boy Hats Worn

Not since the days when it seemed as though every woman appeared suddenly in an Empress Eugenie hat has there been an asquid-to-the-style as the current Dutch bonnet. The Colonel's lady picks them in velvet, chiffon and pique to wear with her expensive afternoon and evening clothes. Judy O'Grady chooses a cheaper one in linen or cotton and wears it with everything. All types are open at the back. The two shown here are made of crisp white pique (left) and in sleek velvet (right). They won't make you stand out from the crowd in original manner, but they are flattering and comfortable.

S.E. Sidwell Lands Gold Button Fish to Win Competition

THE SPORTS MIRROR

By PETE SALLAWAY

THE BOSTON BRAVES dropped everything in 1935, including attendance. As a matter of fact, they nearly dropped out of the National League.

Perhaps because he could obtain publicity for a forlorn outfit in no other way, old Bob Quinn conducted a contest to determine a new name for the club. The Braves became the Bees, and critics said that was the only new thing about an array that last season established a new senior loop record for reverses, 115.

The Bees were relegated to last place and then some without trial, but the experts reasoned without Quinn and quiet Bill McKechnie.

When in December the league asked Charles F. Adams, whom the club owed $300,000, to string along the chain store, racing and hockey magnate consented to do so only in the event that he could obtain Quinn, then general manager of the Brooklyn Dodgers, to run the works.

Quinn's transfer was arranged, and it proved a ten strike. Not only did the Boston club obtain the services of a crafty manipulator, but old Bob forthwith completed two deals with Brooklyn which transformed the Boston aggregation from a doormat to a definite first division threat.

Boston gave Brooklyn southpaw Ed Brandt and outfielder Randy Moore for pitchers Ray Benge and Bobby Reis, catcher Al Lopez and second baseman Tony Cuccinello.

The Bees then turned over Fred Frankhouse for Johnny Babich and Gene Moore.

Sassy Stengel's explanation of the Benge-Reis-Lopez-Cuccinello for Brandt-Randy-Moore transaction was that he gave four fellows who were not doing him any good for two who were not doing the Bees any good, and reasoned that he was two up.

That might have been true as of 1935, although it is reported that Lopez's transfer was due to his having managerial aspirations in Brooklyn. Anyway, things are different this trip with three of the former Dodgers who were transplanted.

Lopez is catching in the form that made him one of the stars of the game.

Working with Billy Urbanaki, Cuccinello gave the Bees a clever second baseman combination, something the aggregation has not had since Rabbit Maranville broke his leg.

Although he is reported to be relieved, Benge has pitched remarkably well.

Nothing much was said about Gene Moore when he came with Babich, but the blond outfielder refugee from the St. Louis Cardinal chain gang has developed into the spark plug of the outfit. Moore is Boston's newest baseball hero. Gene, who had a trial with the Cards a year ago and who wound up batting .326 for Rochester, is a power hitter. He is as fast as a streak and has a fine arm.

On successive days against the Phillies, Moore, who is hitting around .300, swatted home runs into the right field jury box in Boston's National League park and into the left field stand. Outside of Croesley Field, Cincinnati, the Boston right field is the deepest in the loop. Moore's belt into the left field stand tied the score.

Moore hit a home run over the left field wall at Forbes Field, Pittsburgh, the first time that feat ever was accomplished by a left-handed hitter. He circled the bases on a hit inside the park the same day. Competent judges consider Moore, who is the son of Gene Moore, the old Pittsburgh pitcher, the finest first year outfielder to break into the National League in some years.

Danny MacFadden has taken a new lease on life. In addition to Benge, the other Bees bowlers are Ben Cantwell, Reis, Tim Chaplin, Jack Lanning, the veteran Bobby Smith and Bill Weir, a squatty southpaw from the University of New Hampshire. Chaplin is up from Nashville, where he copped twenty-four. Lanning won fifteen games in 1935 for a last place Knoxville club.

Baxter Jordan is hitting well over .300. Mickey Hallin came from Philadelphia for Pinky Whitney and is dividing the third basing with Joe Cochrane. Moore is ably assisted in the outfield by the redoubtable Wally Berger and Hal Lee.

Attendance has dropped to little or nothing last fall now runs from 10,000 to 25,000 on big days. Charles F. Adams has decided to remain in baseball.

The Braves definitely are back as the Bees, and with plenty of bing-

Captures First Prize in Second Event of Anglers' Association

Mrs. C. S. Brown Macaulay Champ

Defeating Miss L. Jarvis 5 and 4 over eighteen holes Mrs. C. S. Brown won the women's championship of the Macaulay Point Golf Club yesterday. Securing a 1 up lead at the ninth, Mrs. Brown played the remaining holes in one over fours. She succeeds Mrs. C. W. Lovell as club champion.

SEVERAL OTHER FINE CATCHES

A gold button, first prize in the competition and honors for catching the season's largest fish to date went to S. E. Sidwell yesterday when he landed a fighting forty-three and one-quarter pound spring salmon while fishing in the Victoria-Saanich Inlet Anglers' Association's "Brentwood Invitational" at Saanich Inlet.

Weather conditions were not good; but the fish were biting good, and some good catches were secured by the many anglers who took part. Aside from the big one, a twenty-nine pound eight ounce fish, twenty-eight and one-half pound, twenty-one and one-half pound and a nineteen pound twelve ounce spring were the other heavyweights secured.

Sidwell was fishing near the Big Boulder when he got his strike. He had 200 feet of line out and was using an abalone spoon, and fishing from a rowboat. He forfeited the rowboat special prize to take the major award.

R. Green took over the runner-up prize when he landed a twenty-nine and one-half pounder, while third prize went to F. E. W. Smith with a twenty-eight and one-half pound fish. S. Davey, with a ten and one-half pounder took the rowboat special prize. Miss I. Deacon and Mrs. A. Clyde both reeled in ten-pounders, which resulted in a draw for first and second women's prizes. Miss Deacon won the draw and secured first prize. The consolation prize went to F. Polson with a six pound eight ounce fish.

The competition was sponsored by the Boatmen's Association of Brentwood Bay. Anglers were out fishing at dawn and were called in at 7 o'clock in the evening.

Charlie Clarke and Elbert Wilson were in charge of the classic which was run from the Anchorage Tea Gardens, the association's headquarters. Mrs. W. O. Wallace was the official weigher of button fish. The prizes were presented by Tom Walker at the windup ceremony in the evening.

The next competition of the association will be held on July 19, and will be sponsored by the Poodle Dog Cafe.

Following are some of the anglers who participated and weighed in the largest fish of their catches:

S. E. Sidwell, forty-three pounds four ounces; Stan "Red" Shemilt, twenty-one pounds eight ounces; Wilf Sturrock, seven pounds eight ounces; R. Green, twenty-nine pounds eight ounces; J. Donald, seven pounds twelve ounces; Miss D. Johnson, seven pounds; K. Campbell, twelve pounds; F. E. W. Smith, twenty-eight pounds eight ounces; John P. Hall, ten pounds; B. Bryan, fourteen pounds; F. Polson, six pounds eight ounces; G. Hibbard, eight pounds; Mrs. A. Clyde, ten pounds; J. Clyde, six pounds eight ounces; C. W. Kinlock, fifteen pounds; Miss I. Deacon, ten pounds; B. Higgs, four pounds eight ounces; W. A. Hardwick, ten pounds eight ounces; B. Thorner, eight pounds; B. H. Woolston, eighteen pounds eight ounces; G. Stancombe, six pounds; S. Davies, ten pounds eight ounces; H. H. Cook, five pounds four ounces; J. Halton, nineteen pounds twelve ounces; M. Dunn, six pounds; and J. Wright, five pounds four ounces.

E. L. Auel Wins Golf at Uplands

E. L. Auel won the anniversary shield at the Uplands Golf Club yesterday with a score of 4 up on par. He was closely followed by Bill Newcombe with a card of 3 up.

George Beveridge was third when he beat par by two holes and C. Brynjolfsson just won by the odd hole to take fourth place.

ROYALS GAIN SOCCER FINALS

New Westminster Team Beats Johnstons 2 to 0 in Dominion Cup Play

Vancouver, July 6.—New Westminster Royals Saturday put Johnstons out of the British Columbia section of the Dominion Soccer Cup play-offs by defeating them, 2 to 0, in a semi-final game here. Royals will meet North Shore United in the final game next Saturday.

The result of Saturday's game was forecast by soccer fans, but although Royals were never in danger, they were not going as well as could be expected, probably due to the absence of Dave Turner at inside right.

The first goal came thirty minutes after the start, when Manner headed in Findler's cross. Play was dull throughout the game, and rain and a slippery turf in the second half slowed it up still more.

Ten minutes after the interval, McKay too a nice pass from "Skinny" Watchorn to beat Waters with a shot the goalie did not have a chance to save.

SEATTLE NINE IN DOUBLE WIN

Faber Hardware Softballers Defeat Victoria 9 to 1 and 13 to 4

Visiting Faber Hardware softballers of Seattle scored a double victory in exhibition games at the Athletic Park on Saturday. In the afternoon fixture they defeated Victoria 9 to 1 and checked in with a 13 to 4 decision in the evening attraction. The Sound City lads played smart ball and were the better club in both engagements.

Gaining a three-run lead in the first inning in the afternoon game, when Graves smacked out a home-run, with two bases occupied, the visitors won as they pleased. They collected a total of thirteen hits off Lloyd Jones, including four for extra bases. The locals got to Mel Daggett for nine safe blows.

Taking to the offerings of Red Palmer in grand fashion, the Seattle squad got away to a five-run lead in the first frame in the evening game. They added four more in the third and with a 9 to 0 lead took matters easy for the remainder of play.

TRIPLE PLAY
In the sixth inning the Victoria team pulled a triple play when Ken Fleming pulled down Gray's line drive and a pair of runners were cut off between the bases. The seventh inning saw Fleming pole out a home-run with one runner aboard the bases.

The Faber club got sixteen hits off the combined offerings of Palmer, Comerford and Moir. Victoria found Hockersmith for five.

FIRST GAME
Score by innings:

STRANGE AS IT SEEMS

—By John Hix

LIBERTY, EQUALITY AND FRATERNITY

Founded by Captain Mission, notorious French pirate, the strange pirate colony of Libertalia used the same motto which was to become the watchword of the French Revolution sixty years later and remains to this day the motto of the French republic.

Libertalia, aside from its inhabitants' means of income and chief industry, was a model republic. It had its own flag, forts and public buildings; a constitution, a house of representatives, laws, a cabinet and a ruler, Captain Mission. Even public schools were established.

When the "bread winners" returned from their piratical ventures with ships loaded down with loot, all the treasure was evenly divided among the republic's population and any captured slaves were freed.

The colony was finally wiped out when one night a swarm of natives attacked it, massacring most of its inhabitants. Only Captain Mission and forty-five other men escaped. Of these, thirty-five, including the captain, attempted to sail to New England but were drowned when their ship went down off Cape Infantes.

GRANT'S NEIGHBOR

The only grave adjacent to Grant's Tomb is that of St. Clair Pollock, situated just north of the tomb. The headstone contains this quaint inscription:

"Erected to the memory of an amiable child, St. Clair Pollock, died July 15, 1897, in the fifth year of his age. Man that is born of woman is of few years and full of trouble. He cometh forth like a flower and is cut down; he fleeth also as a shadow and continueth not."

In 1920 a radical departure was made in the system of numbered streets in the vicinity of West 125th Street and Broadway. At that time 129th Street, west of Broadway, was renamed St. Clair Place, according to L. Ray Nelson of New York City's Department of Parks, in memory of the "Amiable Child."

Tomorrow: "Canvas-back champ."

"Porky" Andrews Shatters Record

GOLDSTREAM IN SECOND PLACE

Seattle, July 6.—High Image, three-year-old from Omaha, was the toast of the Longacres race-track today, after winning the two $1,000 feature handicaps Saturday and yesterday.

The horse, considered an outsider, took the celebration handicaps Saturday. Yesterday High Image finished a length and a half ahead of Goldstream, the favorite, in the Tacoma handicap. The winner paid $10.90 to win and $2.60 to place.

Victoria Athlete Sets Up New Junior Canadian Mark For 120-yard Hurdles of 17.2; Local Stars Do Well at Junior Olympics at Vancouver

Vancouver, July 6.—Crack junior track and field stars from Victoria and Interior British Columbia points today had left in their wake a trail of two shattered junior Canadian records and a majority of other decisive victories over local talent, following the B.C. Junior Olympic championships here Saturday.

A total of three Canadian records, two junior and one intermediate, were bettered at the meet.

Over the rain-swept track and field at Hastings Park the visiting squads swept to no less than nine triumphs out of a total of seventeen events and cracked the Canadian junior records for the 120-yard hurdles and the high jump in doing it.

The intermediate record for the women's broad jump fell when Nancie Martin, Vancouver, won that event with a leap 17 feet 1 1/4 inches. The former mark of 17 feet 3/4 inch was held by Doris Chellaw, Toronto.

ALL CO-STARS

A broad-shouldered young sprinter from the Victoria Y.M.C.A., George Andrews, and a promising young versatile athlete from Trail, Pat Haley, co-starred in the victories of outside talent.

Andrews showed his heels to the rest of the field all the way in the 120-yard hurdles, setting a new junior record of 17.2 for the event. The former record holder, held by Milton Parsons, Vancouver, since 1933, Andrews left the track and moved to the field where he beat out two fellow cluemen, Nelson Hepburn and Henry Rowe, in the discus event with a throw of 88 feet 11 inches. Hepburn and Rowe finished in that order for all-Victoria placings.

The same three entered the javelin event, and again Andrews triumphed with his two clubmates following in the same order as before.

Meanwhile young Haley of Trail had set a new Canadian junior record in the high jump event with a leap of 5 feet 11 inches. The former mark of 5 feet 11 1/2 inches was held by Alex Lucas, Vancouver.

The 100-yard and broad jump events also fell before the versatile Trail athlete.

Other Islanders who took care of other placings in different events were:

Elmor Geddes, Victoria, third in the mile.

Grant Williams, Nanaimo, third in the 220.

Henry Rowe, Victoria, second in the high jump and third in the twelve-pound shotput.

B. McGregor, Victoria, third in the 440.

Ann Lyster, Victoria, second in the women's broad jump.

Virginia Hall, Victoria, third in the women's broad jump.

Interior contestants grabbed off the majority of other placings at the meet.

California Crew Members Injured

Princeton, N.J., July 6.—A negro woman was killed and two members of the University of California crew injured today as two automobiles collided in South Brunswick township.

Evald Swanson, twenty-seven, Turlock, Calif., who rowed number three on the crew of the United States Olympic finals yesterday, was taken to Princeton hospital for treatment of severe hand lacerations. Lawrence Arpen, twenty, Berkeley, Calif., stroke of the crew, suffered a slight scalp laceration.

Their car struck that of John Taylor, New York City. His wife, Louise, thirty-six, died of internal injuries.

All-star Squads Battle Tomorrow

Major League Baseball Outfits in Annual Fracas at Boston; American League Team Has Edge in Hitting; Starting Pitchers Not Named Yet

Boston, July 6.—The National League will concede about twenty-two points in batting to the American League sluggers when the pick of both circuits line up to tomorrow for their annual all-star baseball game.

Manager Joe McCarthy has at his disposal an array of American League sluggers hitting the ball for about .334.

The question seems to be whether Manager Charlie Grimm's senior circuit representatives, batting for .312, have the pitchers to subdue such sluggers as Lou Gehrig, young Joe DiMaggio and Bill Dickey of the New York Yankees, Jimmy Foss of the Boston Red Sox, Earl Averill of the Cleveland Indians, and Charley Geringer of the Detroit Tigers.

The starting pitching berth for the National League seems to rest between St. Louis' Dizzy Dean or Chicago's Curt Davis.

Manager McCarthy has two stellar southpaws available—Lefty Grove and Vernon Gomez—but whether he will open with one of them against the National League's many right-handed batters is uncertain.

Until this morning McCarthy had two righthanders he could have started, but Tommy Bridges of the Detroit Tigers passed up the game because of a cold which forced him from the mound at St. Louis yesterday. He returned to Detroit with most of his teammates, leaving Mel Harder of Cleveland—the American League's most eligible righthander.

MARINE WINS BISLEY SHOOT

Sergt. T. H. Ashby Posts a 34 Out of 35 in Southern Railway Match

Bisley Camp, Surrey, July 6.—The first match of the seventy-third annual meeting of the National Rifle Association, which started today, was won by Sergt. T. H. Ashby of the Marines. Ashby posted a 34 out of a possible 35 for the Southern Railway match.

A strong team of eighteen Canadians, along with marksmen from all over the empire, is assembled here for the shoot, which continues two weeks.

The best Canadian scores in the Southern Railway were 21's, posted by Company Sergt.-Major H. Ruak, Ottawa, and Major T. Spittal, Montreal. Ten of the Dominion team entered the event, calling for seven shots at 200 yards.

Other Canadian scores: Major R. S. Harrison, Toronto, 30; Sergt. J. W. A. Sharpe, 29; Staff Quartermaster Sergt. F. V. Shepherd, Carleton Place, Ont., and Capt. W. Worsick, Winnipeg, 27; Capt. L. J. Stiver, Ottawa, and Lieut. R. Storror, Toronto, 26; Guardsmen D. S. Fraser, Ottawa, 25, and Sergt. J. S. Douglas, Verdun, Que., 24.

The only Canadian entered in the Queen Mary, the other main opening day event, was Sergt. Douglas. Results in this match will be announced later.

VICTORIA INDIANS TAKE BASEBALL

Victoria Indians baseball nine opened their season yesterday afternoon with a 6 to 1 victory over Stockton on the reserve diamond.

Driscoll Loses His $800 Motor

Chelan, July 6.—Lake Chelan's deep water held the $800 motor from the boat of Bob Driscoll, Victoria, today, but Driscoll held the Class F hydroplane title for the annual Chelan regatta.

Driscoll lost his motor in the only mishap of yesterday's event. He escaped injury when he hit another boat, flip-flopped and dropped his motor.

Bobby Watkins, Hoquiam, and Bus Tutill, Seattle, won two heats apiece for a tie in Class C Jim Harlan, Seattle, won in Class A.

Stand Pat In Major Triumph

Chicago, July 6.—Stand Pat, owned by Edward F. Seagram, Toronto, added a major victory to his string Saturday by beating the heavily handicapped Discovery in the $10,000 added Stars and Stripes Handicap before 45,000 spectators at Arlington Park.

Discovery carried the crushing burden of 138 pounds on his back and ran ninth, while the five-year-old son of John F. Grier, Low Degree, one of the heaviest campaigned horses in North America, defeated Corinto, the 100-1 shot, owned by Mrs. Emil F. Danemark, Chicago, by one and one-half lengths. The entry of Hal Price Headley, Lexington, Ky., Whopper, and Hollywood, finished third and fourth, respectively.

Washington Huskies Will Represent U.S. at Olympic Games

Seattle Crew In Brilliant Form To Take Trials

Al Ulbrickson's Boys Come From Behind to Nose Out Penn Squad

COME CLOSE TO GAMES RECORD

Princeton, N.J., July 6.—There is so much optimism over the United States' chances in some branches of Olympic competition that it may be just as well to have at least one pessimist among the country's representatives.

He is Al Ulbrickson, silver-haired coach of the University of Washington crew which has the task of perpetuating United States supremacy started in 1920 by the Navy.

The Washington Huskies, winner of the intercollegiate championship at four miles at Poughkeepsie last month, ran off with the final Olympic tryouts on Lake Carnegie yesterday in one of the headiest performances of rowing ever seen on American waters.

With Bob Moch operating the tiller ropes and strapping Don Hume setting the stroke, the Huskies remained behind Penn. New York A.C. and California for the first half of the 2,000 meter sprint test.

They had planned to do that before the race. Their strategy called for a pause in the third and fourth minutes. They followed it to the letter, dropping from thirty-nine strokes a minute to thirty-four that was to give the Huskies a chance to build up for the final drive. Meanwhile Penn forged in front at forty a minute.

GREAT DRIVE
When the fourth minute was up, Moch gave Hume the signal and he stepped up the pace. His mates rowed the last 500 meters at forty strokes a minute.

They breezed past Penn, going on to win by one and one-quarter lengths in 6:04 4-5, the fastest time of the two-day competition and only 1.5 seconds slower than the Olympic record hung up by California in 1928 at Amsterdam. Penn was clocked in 6:08 3-5.

"We couldn't let them have it three times in a row," said Ulbrickson, referring to the University of California, which provided America's representative in 1928 and 1932. "Since they couldn't win, we just had to."

That gave the Huskies the undisputed sprint and distance championships of the country, but Ulbrickson doesn't figure the Olympic championship is in the bag.

Nothing is certain as far as the American Olympic rowing squad is concerned. Chairman Henry P. Burke announced that only $6,000 of the necessary $16,000 to finance a thirty-man squad is in. It is up

Canada Marathon Team Is Chosen

Toronto, July 6.—Chairman Charles Higginbottom of the marathon team selection committee announced yesterday four of Canada's long-distance runners would travel to the Olympic Games at Berlin. The team will be headed by the veteran Harold Webster, Hamilton holder of the British Empire Games title and winner of the recent Canadian test.

Remaining three members of the team will be Percy Weyer and J. Bartlett, Oshawa, and Vic Callard, Toronto.

EYSTON HELD UP BY TIRE TROUBLE

Bonneville Salt Flats, Utah, July 6.—Capt. George Eyston, trying for new motor car speed records for England, was balked temporarily by tire trouble today.

The Londoner halted after running thirty minutes in an assault on his own one-hour speed record of 159.3022 miles an hour.

The left front tire on his frog-nosed Rolls-Royce special were badly-attendants said he was "doing nearly 170 miles an hour" around the ten-mile circular track on this salty surface of white sand, 110 miles west of Salt Lake City.

Vancouver "Reps" Defeat Hollywood
Vancouver, July 6.—The touring Hollywood cricket team suffered the first defeat of its British Columbia tour Saturday by the narrow margin of fourteen runs at the hands of a Vancouver picked team.

Vancouver registered a total of 127 runs after the Californian eleven had been dismissed for 113.

Seattle St. Georges also tasted defeat from another Vancouver eleven by forty-five runs, the winners making a total of 191 against Seattle's score of 146.

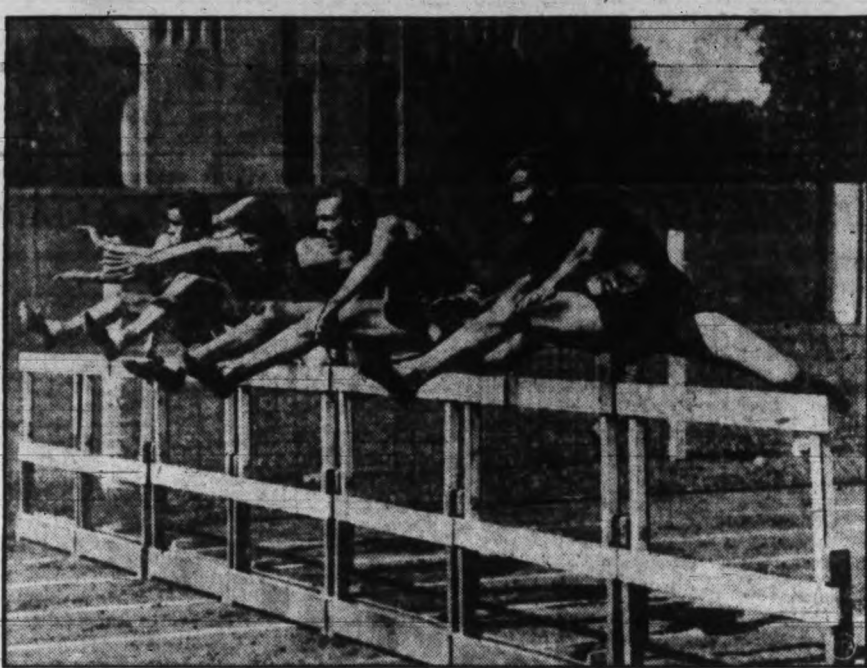

The monthly meeting of the Vancouver Island Outboard Association will be held Wednesday evening at 8 o'clock at McMorran's Pavilion, Cordova Bay.

to Washington and the clubs which the other successful oarsmen represent to raise the deficit in the next ten days.

Seattle, July 6.—A drive to send Washington's victorious crew to the Olympic Games in Berlin opened here today.

University of Washington Alumni and Seattle business men held a meeting yesterday evening, a few hours after the Huskies won the Olympic trials at Princeton, N.J., and discussed plans for a statewide campaign to raise $5,000 to help pay the crew's expenses.

Matching Strides—But Not for Long

Evenly matched were these hurdlers in the 110-meter high of the United States intercollegiate meet in Chicago, as they took the second set of timers. But they didn't stay that way for long. For Forrest Towns, of the University of Georgia, nearest the camera, stepped out to lead the field across the line in 14.1, bettering the old world standard by a tenth of a second. The rest of the field, reading from left to right, are: Allan Tolmich of Wayne; Dick Kearns of Colorado; Jack Kellner of Wisconsin; and Phil Cope of Southern California.

St. Louis Back In First Place

Cardinals Tounce Cincinnati 8 to 6 and 17 to 7 to Regain National Baseball League Lead; Pittsburgh Beats Chicago 4 to 2; Washington Tounces Yanks

For the second time in a week the National League lead lasted just a day. Yesterday the Pittsburgh Pirates knocked Chicago off the top again with a 4 to 3 victory, while the St. Louis Cardinals slugged the Cincinnati Reds 8 to 6 and 17 to 7 to move in.

With the Cards' double victory stopping at least momentarily the forward surge of the rampaging Reds, the supposedly lowly Phillies gave the loop something else to talk about by entering their longest victory streak of the season, stretching their run to five straight yesterday over the Boston Bees, 7 to 6.

As if it was not enough, those daffy Brooklyn Dodgers apparently forgot they were in the Polo Grounds, where they are supposed to be flunked, and clubbed the Giants 3 to 1, despite Mel Ott's fifteenth homer.

The Washington Senators, with

Jimmy Deahong, a Yankee castoff, on the mound for them, turned in a 3 to 1 victory. The triumph didn't put the Senators above fourth place in the league, because the Boston Red Sox, finding the Philadelphia Athletics easy, came through with a double-header decision, 16 to 2 and 8 to 2, to hold onto third place.

The aroused Detroit Tigers stayed in second place by walling off the St. Louis Browns 18 to 9. The up-and-down Cleveland Indians were up in the first game of a twin bill with the Chicago White Sox, 11 to 4, and then lost the nightcap 4 to 2 before Johnny Whitehead's seven-hit pitching.

COAST LEAGUE
Oakland roosted at the top of the standings again today by virtue of wins over Sacramento while the erstwhile pace-setting Seattle Indians were suffering a double setback from the Portland Beavers in Sunday Coast League contests.

The week's outstanding baseball feat, however, was performed by Los Angeles, which broke into the .500 column by capturing seven out of eight games from San Diego. The Angels, playing 622 ball in the last three weeks, replaced the Padres in fifth place Saturday, and now are only five and a half games out of first place.

The Seraphs, San Francisco Mission, Portland and Oakland won double-headers yesterday. Los Angeles trimmed San Diego 3 to 1 and 4 to 3. Portland shellacked the Indians 8 to 1 and 10 to 3. Oakland subdued the Solons 4 to 3 and 1 to 0, and the Missions triumphed over the San Francisco Seals 8 to 5 and 5 to 1.

U. S. Tracksters Flash Fine Form

George Varoff, San Francisco, Steals Thunder at A.A.U. Championships With New World Pole Vault Mark of 14 Ft. 6 1/2 In.; Owens and Lash Double Victors

Canadian Press
Princeton, N.J., July 6.—A burst of record-smashing exploits still reverberated like fire-crackers today after foremost track and field athletes of the United States wound up their national A.A.U. senior championships and girded themselves for the coming Olympic team battle.

Twenty thousand holiday enthusiasts saw such performers as Jesse Owens, Forrest "Spec" Towns, Glenn Hardin and Don Lash pace an onslaught upon the time and distance that produced record-making performances. Spectators witnessed the downfall of eight champions in individual competition, and hoisted a new satellite to the athletic skies.

George Varoff, blond pole-vaulter of San Francisco's Olympic Club.

Varoff, twenty-two-year-old janitor, soared to a new world record of 14 feet, 6 1/2 inches. Never before a contender in national title competition, he beat the highly favored Southern California pair, Earle Meadows and Bill Sefton.

Varoff topped the listed world mark of 14 feet, 4 1/2 inches, set four years ago in the Olympic tryouts at Palo Alto by Southern California's Bill Graber. He also displaced the American mark of 14 feet, 5 1/2 inches, made by Yale's Keith Brown and on file for world approval.

Varoff will make his bid for the Olympic team in the final tryouts next week-end at New York, along with other stars who made Saturday's

TWO FOR OWENS

After outrunning his Marquette rival, Ralph Metcalfe, by a yard to capture the 100 metre dash in 10.4 seconds, equalling the meet record, Owens returned to the broad-jump pit and cleared 26 feet, 3 inches to annex his second championship. This leap bettered the listed world mark of 26 feet, 2 1/2 inches, held by Japan's Chuhei Nambu, but fell short of the Ohio state star's own best mark of 26 feet, 8 1/2 inches, made last year pending acceptance as a world record.

Lash, following his record-smashing victory in the 10,000 metre run Friday, captured his second United States title by scoring another record-breaking triumph in the 5,000 metres. The iron-legged Indiana boy broke the tape for the distance, slightly more than three miles, in 15 minutes, 4.8 seconds, considerably behind the world record of 14.17.

The south's twin hurdling ace, Towns and Hardin, showed their heels in record fashion. Towns skinned over the 110 metre high hurdles in 14.2 seconds to equal the listed world record, held by Percy Beard, and came within 1-10 of a second of equalling his own best time of the year, already on file for record acceptance.

Hardin flashed home eight yards in front of Dale Schofield of Brigham Young University in 51.6 seconds, in the 400-metre hurdles. This set a new United States record as well as a new meet mark, displacing the mark of 51.8 that Hardin set in 1934.

Who's Who At Hotels

There was a persistent rumor around the Empress Hotel this morning that Johnny Weismuller was staying here over the week-end.

The possibility of Mr. Weismuller considering a swim across the straits to Fort Angeles has been mentioned.

One of the best week-ends ever known as far as tourist business is concerned, and well in line with the days of 1929, is what Victoria hotel men were looking back to this morning.

The Empress Hotel was full to capacity on Saturday night, with 350 United States holidaymakers checking out yesterday.

The Dominion Hotel reports as many people turned away as registered. At this hotel several people waited in the lobby until midnight for the chance of cancelled reservations.

The return of Central Films Limited's cast and staff from location at Cowichan Lake on Saturday night added to the confusion.

Taxi drivers on Saturday night were telling visitors frankly that they believed it impossible to find hotel space in Victoria.

The majority of the holidaymakers were from Seattle and other points in the state of Washington, but there were many Oregonians among them.

"I simply adore my work, and I'm getting a glorious trip to the coast out of it," said Miss E. Huntley Duff, Canadian stylist for McCall's at the Empress Hotel this morning.

Miss Duff, who arrived at the hotel yesterday from Westmount, Quebec, and who will remain here until Thursday, is the daughter of A. Huntley Duff, K.C., and niece of the assistant chairman of the Canadian Pacific Railway.

Her aunt is Miss Gwen Duff, a well-known lawyer in Edmonton.

Miss Duff spent three years in Switzerland, and was at Oxford for two years.

"We were impressed with your lovely flowers and your well-kept homes" was the comment this morning of Mrs. S. G. Ward and Mrs. O. A. Abington of Corsicana, Texas, who drove up to Victoria, arriving at the Dominion Hotel yesterday.

The two ladies, both very smartly dressed and equipped with delightful southern drawls, said they wanted to get home to see the Centennial, which was only just starting when they left. "We know how to do those things down in Texas," they added.

They will travel back by way of Vancouver and Portland.

Lady St. David and the Honorable LeGrange St. David are expected at the Empress Hotel on July 14, arriving from the Orient in the R.M.S. "Empress of Japan."

Fifty-six members of the Oak Leaves Tour are expected at the Empress Hotel tomorrow. They are from Chicago. Several other tours from the same organization have already called in Victoria.

One of the largest parties of the season is expected in two weeks' time, when the Burlington tour of 150 is scheduled to stop off at the hotel. It also is from Chicago.

Tells of Ship Hit By Torpedo

Frank Paulding Describes Sinking of Ss. Laconia During War

The story of his sinking in Ss. Laconia when it was torpedoed by a German U-boat during the war was told in pictures and words by Frank Paulding at the weekly luncheon of the Gyro Club today.

Mr. Paulding told how he was one of three Y secretaries to leave New York on the ship and how, as they were pulling out, a German U-boat had said to him that the chances of their being torpedoed were 1,000 to one.

As he showed slides that had been taken from magazine pictures, line drawings, and official British photographs, he related how on a Sunday morning an old Scottish soldier was telling them of the battle of the Somme when suddenly there was a thudding crash. They all knew what it was, but there was no panic, just a woman's scream.

They rushed for their cabins, grabbed their life preservers and went to the lifeboats that had been assigned to them. Mr. Paulding described how his lifeboat was tipped up and how he was thrown into the water.

For twenty minutes he struggled in the icy Atlantic, being turned away from one boat because it already had seventy in it and finally being pulled into another. At dawn, after tossing all night on a twelve-foot swell, they were picked up by a British warship and taken to Queenstown, Ireland.

A strange incident occurred during the torpedoing of the Laconia. One of the Y secretaries and the Scottish soldier, who had been telling them stories of the Somme, were in a half-submerged boat close to the sinking ship when another torpedo was fired. It struck the Laconia and the wave it caused threw the half-submerged lifeboat away from the keeling ship right beside another lifeboat.

Angus McIntyre introduced the speaker. Waldo Skillings was in the chair. It was announced that Carl Fleming, U.S. magician, would speak at the club next week.

Saturday's street collection netted the total sum of $136.04 for the funds of the King's Daughters. Mrs. A. Perry convened the affair and with her helpers prepared the attractive floral buttonholes which were used for tags.

The Ready-to-Help Circle took charge of the refreshments which were served to all who helped with the tagging.

Names coming to Victoria, there is a notable increase this summer in the number of arrivals from more distant parts of the United States.

Names picked at random from the list over the week-end include Miss E. C. Macleod, Hartford, Conn.; Mrs. D. H. Rubineau, New York City; Mr. and Mrs. Charles Livingston, and Mr. and Mrs. E. H. Livingston, Salt Lake City, Utah; Mrs. M. H. Wheeler, Carlisle, Pennsylvania; the Misses E. and L. Hanna, New York City; Mrs. E. A. Young, New Rochelle, New York; Mr. and Mrs. Stone, Hanover, New Hampshire; Mr. and Mrs. O. E. Zehr and son, Chicago; Mrs. M. T. and Miss Hassell, Denver; Mrs. A. S. and Miss Cutler, Brookline, Mass.; and Mrs. A. B. Hathaway, Cambridge, Mass.

Among Californians who are staying at the Empress Hotel at present are Mr. and Mrs. R. Cahn, San Francisco; Mr. and Mrs. H. J. McClatchy, Sacramento; the Misses R. Mauchant, J. A. Leggett and H. W. Kennedy, San Francisco; Miss M. L. Taulinson, Oakland; Miss M. E. Alexander, Oakland; C. G. Cooke and Miss P. Cooke, Los Angeles; and Miss L. Armour, San Francisco.

Mrs. Cecil French returned to take up residence at the Empress Hotel yesterday after a two weeks' visit to Jasper.

Dr. and Mrs. W. H. Cole, whose home is in Mexico City, are back at the Dominion Hotel today after a five-day trip up the island.

Californians at the Dominion Hotel today include G. Berlingen and L. Bartholomew, Stockton; Miss Anne M. Hall, San Mateo; Miss Margaret Connelly and Mrs. E. R. Carpenter; Mrs. and Mrs. Arthur Kelley and their son, Beverly Hills; Mr. and Mrs. R. L. Butcher, Los Angeles; Kenneth G. McGilvray, Sacramento; Miss P. E. Little, San Francisco; Mr. and Mrs. E. E. Radcliff, Burbank; Mr. and Mrs. W. E. Innes, Los Angeles.

Other United States arrivals at the Dominion Hotel include Mr. and Mrs. James G. Moore and Miss Miriam Lee, Chicago; the Misses Ruby Bean and Madge McCoy, Salt Lake City.

TO INVITE BAR GROUP TO B.C.

Benchers Approve Invitation to Canadian Body to Meet Here

Benchers of the Law Society of British Columbia at a full board meeting here today empowered W. de B. Farris, the only member of the board absent from the gathering, to extend to the Canadian Bar Association an invitation to hold its convention next year in British Columbia, dividing meetings between Victoria and Vancouver.

Matters pertaining to the annual provincial gathering in Vancouver next Monday and Tuesday were discussed at the session here today.

Further consideration was given the question of implementing libraries throughout the province.

No action of a disciplinary nature was taken against any members of the profession.

Ronald McNeil, 776 Falkland Road, suffered a hand fracture when riding a motorcycle, and was in collision with a car driven by Arthur B. Little, Esquimalt, on Saturday night.

McNeil was taken to the Jubilee Hospital, where he was attended by Dr. W. H. Moore.

Grace Allen, 209 Superior Street, received injuries to her shoulder, which necessitated medical attention in an accident at Government and Superior Streets yesterday evening at 11:15 o'clock.

Miss Allen was a passenger in a car driven by Kenneth T. Rickman, Kent Road, which was in collision with another car, driven by Albert Weiss, 147 Ontario Street. John Bruce 618 Moss Street, another passenger in the Rickman car, and Grace Kemmel, 1587 York Place, a passenger in the Weiss car, were uninjured.

Explosive, 1137 Caledonia Avenue, suffered shock and bruising in an accident at 9:15 o'clock this morning when the motorcycle he was driving collided with a car driven by Edward T. Simmons, 1171 Port Street, at Cook and Caledonia Avenues.

RAIN BALKS MOVIE GROUP

Continuous Rain at Cowichan Sets Central Films Badly Behind Schedule

Disgusted with the weather, which completely blocked their plans of a week's hard work in the centre of Vancouver Island's logging district, the cast, production staff and technical crew of the Central Films production, "Vengeance of the Forest," arrived back in Victoria on Saturday evening and went straight to work in the Willows studio that same night.

Continuous rain permitted the taking of only 650 feet of film during the six days spent by the company on location at the Industrial Timber Company's Camp 3. The schedule called for about five times that footage.

It is understood the company will seek another logging camp nearer the city to complete the outdoor takes. This will mean probable waste of the few good shots obtained at Cowichan owing to the impossibility of matching the film.

William Gargan, who stars in the picture with Molly Lamont, has to leave Victoria on July 13 to fulfill a Hollywood contract, and the company is working overtime in an attempt to catch up some of the lost time.

Interiors were being shot at the Willows yesterday and today, while Kenneth J. Bishop, president of the company and producer, was anxiously watching the weather reports for the possibility of completing the outdoor work.

Roosevelt's Campaign Plans in the Making

Discussing the tours they are soon to make and the cities they will visit in their campaign for re-election as President and Vice-president of the United States were Franklin D. Roosevelt, right, and John N. Garner, when the above picture was taken at Washington.

"Mutiny on the Bounty" which is now showing at the Plaza Theatre, cannot be compared to any other film-achievement. It stands alone and far above anything of its kind that has ever been filmed or which may be filmed for years to come.

MISSIONARIES FLEE POSTS

Hongkong, July 6.—British and United States missionaries fled today from the interior of Kwangsi Province in fear of a new outbreak of Chinese internal warfare.

With their position in Kwangsi reported rapidly becoming worse,
British missionaries started for Hongkong lest they be stranded in Nanning, in the southwest of the province on the Si Kiang, should hostilities break out. American missionaries proceeded from the interior toward Wuchow, on the same river, in the eastern section of the province.

The population of Nanning was reported panicky and expecting attacks by Nanking (central government) planes within a few days. All river shipping has been commandeered to carry war materials.
It remained uncertain whether the southwest (Kwangsi) government would be represented at the Nanking conference Friday called in an effort to avert hostilities.

Canton sources reported what was described as further mutinies among the Nanking troops stationed in Kiangsi, and it was said a body of soldiers was marching to the border to join the southern (Canton) forces.

Vancouver, July 6.—Word was received here today that the Chinese government had granted permission to the Chinese carnival board of the Vancouver Jubilee committee to export from China antiques and curios.

Officials have been waiting for a definite decision concerning this matter as they have already secured, in China, hundreds of age-old relics and curios, some 4,000 years old.
Many of the exhibits being sent here for the Chinese village, which will be opened July 18, have been secured from private collections throughout China.

The collection coming here will include groups from government museums and private exhibits and will be in charge of Dr. Kiang
Kang-hu and Dr. Zing Yang-kuo, Shanghai.

The shipment will arrive here on the Empress of Japan July 14.

Together Again "Speed" Opens Here Tomorrow

William Powell and Myrna Loy who will appear together in "The Great Ziegfeld," which will open at the Capitol Theatre on Wednesday.

A musical sequence so spectacular, elaborate and difficult of execution that it required four months to plan, rehearse and finally film, is the record established by the widely-discussed "You" number, one of the highlights in Metro-Goldwyn-Mayer's sensational musical pageant, "The Great Ziegfeld," which will open on Wednesday at the Capitol Theatre, with William Powell, Myrna Loy and Lula Rainer in the stellar roles and a staggering supporting cast of 5,000 players.

Staged on the "Ziegfeld Roof," the number is presented in six episodes and introduces the 200 glorified American showgirls and dancers who are presented in the picture.
The spectacle opens with a gigantic bouquet of American Beauties, each flower represented by a glorified beauty. From the bouquet emerges
Ray Bolger, sensational dancer of the New York stage.

Smart Comedy At Columbia

Hitch-hiking provides the basis for an excellent comedy, "Hitch Hike Lady," starring Alison Skipworth, which opened today at the Columbia Theatre.

The new Republic photoplay unfolds the story of an English housekeeper hitch-hiking to join her son in California. In her transconti-ental itinerary she picks up four companions, and is unwittingly instrumental in developing a romance between the two leads and bringing about the reformation of two hardened criminals.

In the second feature are Heather Angel and Rogers Pryor in "The Headline Woman."

Shakespeare Play Coming Here Soon

The management of the Oak Bay Theatre will bring to Victoria the lavish Shakespeare comedy, "A Midsummer Night's Dream," which will be given its premiere at the opening of the new neighborhood theatre.

"A Midsummer Night's Dream" has an all-star cast, including Verree
Teasdale, James Cagney, Dick Powell and many others. Music arrangements are by Felix von Mendelssohn and dances directed by Bronislava Nijinska and Nina Theillade.

Where To Go Tonight

Atlas—Lily Pons in "I Dream Too Much."
Capitol—Edw. G. Robinson in "Bullets or Ballots."
Columbia—"Hitch Hike Lady," starring Alison Skipworth.
Dominion—Warner Baxter in
"Robin Hood of El Dorado."
Plaza—"Mutiny on the Bounty," starring Franchot Tone.
Crystal Garden—Swimming.

do's "I Dream Too Much," now being shown at the Atlas Theatre. The world-famed prima donna was born in Cannes and educated in Paris.
Action locales of her first picture are southern France, Paris and London.

Miss Pons is seen as a little French girl with a superb voice who, desiring only to hold the love of her young husband, attempts to escape from the fame which her genius thrusts upon her. Failing this, she solves the problem by making her husband a success in spite of himself.

In the second feature on this programme are Gene Raymond and Margaret Callahan in "Seven Keys to Baldpate."

School for Mothers Planned Says It Will Be Blessing to World

A FAMOUS WOMAN psychologist has just established a school in which she proposes to train women in the way they should train their babies. She says:

"Motherhood is the only profession for which no preparation is expected or required. The problem child usually comes from a problem-home where there is a problem mother. The problem mother is a formidable factor in social wastage. Mistakes made in a child's upbringing in the first years of his life often lead to warped and twisted personalities, deforming every human relationship he may ever make. The only cure for all of this is a trained intelligent preparation for motherhood."

A school for mothers! It's a grand idea and there isn't one of us who won't be plugging for its success. If there was ever anything that filled a long-felt want, it is this. For what the world needs more than anything else, what it always has needed and always will need, is good mothers. If there is any one who can teach women to bring up their children to be fine men and women, instead of rotters and hoodlums, she should be given the Congressional Medal for distinguished services to her country or deified or something.

Anyway, it is a step forward in recognizing that motherhood is a career that requires scientific training in order to be practiced successfully. Instead of an odd job that any little nitwit of a girl can turn out when she isn't going to cocktail parties, or playing bridge, or taking part in a golf tournament, or stepping out to night clubs, or what do you? Good is bound to come of facing the fact that at least as much thought, effort and intelligence should be given to preparing oneself to shape the destiny of a human being as to how to give a permanent or pound a typewriter.

The trouble has always been that we have held to the theory that there is something occult and mysterious about motherhood and that when a woman has a baby, no matter how brainless and flighty she is, some miracle occurs that gives her the wisdom, strength and insight to rear it. "Mother knows best" is the slogan we use to enslave children to tyrants and fools. Worse still, this idiotic idea that every mother has an intuitive knowledge and understanding of her children and knows by instinct how to guide them makes men turn over the rearing of their youngsters to women whose judgment they would not trust in any other matter in the world.

How we have fallen for this popular fallacy so long is one of the insoluble mysteries of life. For, in reality, we all know that motherhood does not change a woman's character one iota. It does not put brains in an empty head, nor make a stupid woman intelligent, nor a frivolous one wise. Bearing a child does not even make a woman a mother save in a physical sense. It does not give her a mother heart. There are thousands of women who have not a single mother impulse, who haven't even an animal instinct for their children and to whom their offspring are always brats and nuisances, just as there are other women who never have a child who are all mother.

Women who are deliberately bad mothers are few, however. Most women adore their children and are willing to make any sacrifice for them, and it is the tragedy of motherhood that so often the women who are trying to be the best mothers are the worst. They sin through ignorance and not intent, but the results are none the less disastrous for that.

This gives us the mothers who love so blindly that they cannot see a single blemish in their children and so let them grow up with faults that are a handicap to them as long as they live. Boorish manners that make them unpopular. Slovenly speech that mark them as uncultured. Selfish disregard of other people's rights that ostracize them. Often physical defects that could have been cured in youth, but that nothing can be done about in maturity.

It gives us the admiring mothers who are so weak that they have not the strength to stand up and fight a self-willed youngster. They never teach their children to control their appetites and they become drunkards and libertines. They never teach them to conquer their tempers and they become murderers. They never teach them to deny their desires and they become thieves. They never breed in them any grit and courage and sense of responsibility and they fill the courts with their divorces.

It gives us the possessive mothers whose love is so selfish that it wrecks their children's lives rather than give them up and seek happiness in their own ways. If this school for mothers can teach women how to love their children wisely but not too well, and put strength in their good right arms when it comes to managing them, it will be God's own blessing to the world.

Uncle Wiggily and the Pineapple

By HOWARD R. GARIS

Jiggie Flatpaw, the honey-bee, and Uncle Wiggily were walking home from the store, where they had been shopping for Nurse Jane. Said Jiggie: "You know, Uncle Wiggily, what I would do if one of the Bad Chaps came along now and wanted to nibble your ear?" "What would you do, Jiggie?" Uncle Wiggily asked, twinkling his pink nose and taking a better look at his market basket. "Would you scare him by growling?" "No, I wouldn't," Jiggie answered. "In this bag I'm carrying there is a big prickly fruit-the one we bought for Nurse Jane. 'Oh, you mean the pineapple!' Mr. Longears laughed. 'That's right. The pineapple. Well, I'd take that pineapple and throw it at the Bad Chap, but got safe home to the house and he'd run away so fast that the breeze he'd make would blow all the leaves off the trees! There! There! What I'd do!' Uncle Wiggily chuckled. 'Good idea! You might not hit him with the pineapple and then he'd be caught. And, besides, we wouldn't have the pineapple for dessert!'"

On they went, and as Uncle Wiggily had hoped, they didn't meet any of the Bad Chaps, but got safely home to the hollow stump bungalow with all the things they had bought, including the pineapple. "Here we are!" Uncle Wiggily called and he came in the door. "Here are your market things, Nurse Jane. Then he listened for someone seemed to be crying. When Nurse Jane came in she looked worried.

"What's the trouble?" Uncle Wiggily asked. "Who is crying?" "It's the new little girl rabbit, Nancy! Aisee Wibblewobble was over this afternoon and she brought a box of marshmallow candies for Nancy. It was kind of her, but now Nancy wants to eat them all, and when I take them from her she cries! You see, she's so very young, the muskrat lady added, so Uncle Wiggily wouldn't think that Nancy was being bad on purpose.

"But why don't you let her eat the marshmallows?" Jiggie wanted to know. "Oh, how can you ask such a question?" Nurse Jane exclaimed. "That's just like you, though-always hungry. Because the candies would make Nancy sick, that's why. We have to be careful of our young rabbits!"

Now they could hear Nancy crying, harder and harder. Nurse Jane had the box of marshmallows. "That's just like you, though-always hungry. Because the candies would make Nancy sick, that's why. We have to be careful of our young rabbits!"

Uncle Wiggily's Plan "I've got an idea! It may not work, but then again it might. Bring the marshmallows to Nancy, Nurse Jane, and you, Jiggie, bring the pineapple."

Nurse Jane was crying. "That's just like you, though-always hungry. Because the candies would make Nancy sick, that's why. We have to be careful of our young rabbits!"

"Oh!" Uncle Wiggily exclaimed in a loud, jolly voice. "What's all that? Tears? Why, Nancy?"

"Yes, of course they are," Uncle Wiggily said kindly. "But I want to show you a little game. Jiggie, will you get the pineapple on the window sill, please?" "Now!-And he took the marshmallows from Nurse Jane. "Nancy, watch this!" He tossed a marshmallow at the little apple. It stuck right on one of the tall, thin branches.

"This, too, stuck!"

"Let me try, let me try!" Nancy shouted, her eyes shining. "I can stick them on, too!"

"Nurse Jane, take the rest, can't you?" Nancy threw all the marshmallows at the

"The stars incline, but do not compel"

TUESDAY, JULY 7, 1936

Astrologers read this as an unimportant day in planetary direction. Benefic aspects dominate the day, but the day is not a particularly good one for pushing many lines of merchandising. Buying and selling in large quantities is forecast. Wholesalers will profit. International events, international law will be studied. Vacancies on supreme court benches are prognosticated. This is a favorable time for real estate transactions, but it seems to be more lucky for small deals than for larger ones. Accidents are indicated while this configuration prevails. It is recalled that astrologers warned that this year will be marked by many disasters in the air, on the water and close to the earth.

The sun in Cancer, the sign ruled by the moon, in its first aspect is in the house of sorrow, grief and sorrow. It is believed to promote radical ideas regarding foreign affairs and religious and educational institutions.

Trouble in jails and hospitals is attributed to aspects that may be effective in some extraordinary outbreak this summer. Reforms in treatment of the unfortunate are indicated.

There is a sign interpreted as pressing unwavering loyalty to President Roosevelt, on the part of the masses. Mercury in the "house of sorrow" gives good promise concerning national finances.

Persons whose birthday is in the house of sorrow are indicated. Uniform happiness is probable.

Children born on this day probably will be fond of society and interested in public affairs. Subjects of this sign usually possess sound judgment and enjoy much good fortune.

William Henry Wilder, clergyman, was born on this day, 1848. Others who have celebrated it as a birthday include Sir Francis Bernard, colonial governor, 1711. (Copyright, McClure Newspaper Syndicate)

Section 98 Is "Buried" in Toronto

Canadian Press

Toronto, July 6.-In a coffin borne shoulder-high and followed around Queen's Park by a crowd of alk-hated men, the "remains" of Section 98 were "buried" here Saturday as Communists celebrated the end of the famous section of the Criminal Code.

Tim Buck, who was put in the penitentiary through enforcement of the section, helped officiate at the ceremony.

In an address in which he appealed to the crowd of about 1,500 to embrace Communism, Buck said: "We have won a notable victory, but the forces of reaction are advancing on other fronts."
